

CITY APPROVES POWER SCHEME

AGREEMENT WITH THE CO. TO GO TO PEOPLE

Council Considers the Proposi- tion Made for Cheaper Light.

After an important business communication from a great corporation like the B. C. Electric Railway Co. had lain on the city council table for three months—and that without even the ordinary business-like acknowledgment of its receipt—any other business house would make the city council last night took up and dealt with the draft agreement submitted on behalf of the company by its local manager, A. T. Goward. This was approved and a by-law will be prepared for placing before the people, ratifying the agreement between the city and the company. Mr. Goward was present.

The company, having in view very heavy expenditure in the development of what it believes will prove an inexhaustible source of power at Jordan river, needs an assurance from the city for the protection of bondholders that it will not go into the business of developing power, or that if it ever does it will not be until it has made an offer for the acquisition of the company's works. In return for this the company offers some concessions, among which are energy for street lighting at one-half what it cost the city to develop energy now, and the reduction of commercial lighting rates to what they are in Vancouver now.

A letter was read last night from Mr. Goward, pointing out that no action had been taken by the city on this, and that if none was taken by June 25 the company would regretfully have to withdraw the offer made.

No Further Concessions

Mr. Goward said this letter had been written only after very serious consideration by the company and after many meetings. He read a letter from J. Blundell Brown, an English director of the company, stating that he would not be able to come over here, and adding that the company could make no further concessions than those outlined in the proposed agreement; that if the city did not act on it it would have to be withdrawn. Mr. Goward pointed out that the Jordan river scheme meant the expenditure of a million and a half, and immediate action was necessary to enable the company to finance it. All the company wanted to know was whether the city felt like going on with the matter and putting it before the ratepayers, or thought it was not a good agreement.

Ald. Henderson thought the council were practically all agreed except on minor points which were to be amended. If the agreement was lived up to it would be all right.

Ald. Bishop spoke of the desirability of having a definite statement as to which tramway extensions would be made to near-by points.

Ald. Maile was under the impression that the whole thing had been practically settled.

"I have had no reply to that agreement," said Mr. Goward. "I do not even know whether you have received it or not so far as any acknowledgment is concerned."

Ald. Raymond said the whole council had been absolutely in favor of the agreement and unanimous except for three words. Why it had not been acted upon he did not know.

Ald. Turner moved that the council approve of the principle of the agreement and instruct the solicitor to proceed at once with the preparation of a by-law, in consultation with the mayor.

Ald. Bishop seconded this.

City Solicitor Mann projected himself into the discussion at this point. He did not think the agreement would be regarded favorably by the ratepayers because it was one-sided; absolutely and entirely one-sided at the present moment; entirely one-sided and the solicitor had written council an eight-page letter on the subject, which should be read, he ventured to say as the agreement was now the people would turn it down. Mr. Mann suggested that a special committee be appointed to consider the expert advice of City Electrician Hutchinson and himself on mechanical and legal points.

"Why refer it to a committee of four or five and keep this thing dragging for months?" asked Ald. Turner. "I have moved that a committee of one be appointed, the mayor, and I can see no use in dilly-dallying."

Mr. Hutchinson's opinion was that the city got no concession worth mentioning in return for what the company asked, and that the agreement was entirely one-sided in its present form.

Ald. Bishop asked for particulars.

Electrician's Opinion.
Mr. Hutchinson replied that the gist of the agreement was that the city was to enjoy a reduction of fifty per cent in the cost of street lighting, but in order to fit the city system to the kind of current the company would supply there would have to be a large investment in plant and lamps, which would mean 25 per cent more cost and 50 per cent more maintenance. This investment was necessary whether the company supplied power or the city increased its output and brought the system into-date. As it did increase its output the cost of producing energy per lamp would be reduced. Of the present 260 lamps 200 were of the new, long-burning type and were tended by one trimmer, while it took three trimmers to look after the other 60. He would undertake to care for double the number of lamps with three trimmers. A reduction of 30 to 40 per cent in the cost of energy and of 50 per cent in the cost of maintenance would not nearly offset by the 50 per cent reduction the company offered. As to the reductions in commercial lighting rates he thought a fixed amount per kilowatt hour by meter should be stated. The city electrician said that statements made by Mr. Goward before the board of trade and private bills committee were exaggerated to the extent of 50 or 60 per cent. The cost per lamp per annum of the city lights does not exceed $100 nor yet approach anywhere near it. The city's plant was a thoroughly efficient one.

Mr. Goward replied that Mr. Hutchinson's idea that the company had offered to run the city's street lighting for 50 per cent less than it now cost was absolutely wrong and where he got it was not clear. The company did not want to have anything to do with the arc light. It offered a rate of $38 per lamp per annum which the city did not want to accept. It wanted electrical energy on its own switch-board at the station, and this was what it cost the city to develop energy now. The company also said it would make all lighting rates to citizens the same as Vancouver has now.

Ald. Fullerton asked if "Victoria" would benefit by a fall in rates in Vancouver.

RHODES SCHOLAR IS ARTHUR YATES

Selection Made for This Year From British Columbia.

Arthur Yates, of Vancouver, is the man chosen from British Columbia this year to receive the Rhodes scholarship of £1,500 a year for three years with studentship at one of the colleges at Oxford University. The judges were the lieutenant-governor, the chief justice, the superintendent of education, Inspector Gordon and City Superintendent Argue, of Vancouver. Both the lieutenant-governor and Mr. Argue were in this case unable to attend the meeting, so the candidate was chosen by the other three judges. There were four applicants, two from Victoria and two from Vancouver.

The successful man was chosen on account of his all round attainments both in the regular school course and on the playground. Mr. Yates was well qualified in every way, having taken a prominent part in the college literary work and also because he is a fine athlete, making a specialty of Rugby football. R. P. Woodward, vice-president of the Vancouver Rugby Football Union, in a letter to the superintendent of education, speaks of him as "one of the cleverest, brainiest and grittiest backs in British Columbia."

Mr. Yates, who is 23 years of age, was born in Darlington, England, but came to Canada when only three years of age. He has resided in British Columbia for the past ten years, and during that time passed through the Vancouver high school and took the first two years of his McGill course in Vancouver. On winning the Flumerfelt scholarship he went to Montreal where he spent two years attending lectures at McGill University. He was also secretary of the college athletic association; president of the literary association, and editor of the college paper. Because of his elocutionary attainments and reasoning powers he was chosen to take part in the inter-class debates.

Since leaving college Mr. Yates has been teaching at West Burnaby school and has played half-back on the Vancouver Rugby football team.

On completing his course it is his intention to take up the study of law, for which he seems unusually well fitted.

DISMEMBERED BODY OF MAN FOUND

New York Painter Believed to Have Been Murdered by Robbers.

(Times Leased Wire.)

New York, June 11.—The dismembered body of a man found by the police last night was identified to-day as that of Samuel Bersin, a painter. It is believed that the man was murdered by robbers, as relatives say that Bersin usually carried a large sum of money and valuable jewelry. The body was found in a large bundle, which was being guarded by a boy who did not know its contents. The police think the murderers hired the boy to guard the gruesome package so it would not be interfered with, while they secured a wagon to haul it away and throw it in the harbor. Identification was made by means of a laundry mark on the clothing.

GRENFELL BANKER MISSING.

Winnipeg, June 11.—James Y. Thomson, manager of the Grenfell Investment Company, bankers at Grenfell, Sask., has been missing for some days, and fears are entertained that he has been drowned in Crooked Lake. Search parties are now out, but so far no trace of him has been found.

U. S. TARIFF BILL.

Washington, D. C., June 11.—Senator La Follette's amendments to the woolen schedule were defeated in the senate this afternoon by a vote of 23 to 44.

MAY NOT HAVE POWER IT THINKS

SOLICITOR ADVISES IN ESQUIMALT WORKS

Doubt Raised as to Whether City Can Buy Out Whole Undertaking.

A new hitch was developed in the negotiations for the acquiring by the city of the works of the Esquimalt Waterworks company. It comes from the city's side, and after the recent legislation which was supposed to have completely cleared the way the aldermen are quite taken by surprise.

When the matter was taken up at last night's special council meeting City Solicitor Mann, who drew the act passed last session providing for the expropriation of the company's works, sprung his surprise, informing the council that it was doubtful if it could expropriate the whole of the company's works and undertakings. Incidentally the mayor and city solicitor confirmed the truth of a news story published by the Times several weeks ago, to the effect that the company would fight the city to the Privy Council, if need be.

The mayor called the attention of council to the necessity for deciding what further actions it would take in regard to the Esquimalt works.

"I will make a motion to go to Sooke," said Ald. Fullerton. "We will have to go there eventually so let us end this matter at once. I will post a notice if I have to, but if not I make the motion now."

Ald. Maile moved that the city proceed to expropriate under the act of last session.

City Solicitor Mann said the council must first decide what it wanted to expropriate.

"The whole works, of course, as the act gives us authority," said Ald. Maile.

Mr. Mann threw his damper on the proceedings right there. He told the council they could expropriate the Goldstream works, they might be able to expropriate its plant in Victoria West but it was a grave question whether they could expropriate Thetis lake, the company being engaged in furnishing a public service. He advised the council to secure the opinion of E. P. Davis, K.C., Vancouver, an absolutely free and unbiased man and the most eminent in the whole province. Mr. Mann added that it was stated publicly that the company intended to challenge the city's right to expropriate its whole work.

In view of this statement, and of the fact that expropriation proceedings would cost $25,000 to $30,000, which would be a dead loss if the proceedings were upset or the people turned down the ratifying by-law, several aldermen who have been willing to take the Esquimalt plant at a fair figure at once declared themselves in favor of going to Sooke, and going at once. It had been the understanding of all that the whole of the company's undertakings were to be acquired.

Ald. Fullerton said he was convinced from what he heard among citizens that they would not approve of the payment of even the minimum of $70,000. If the council were to go ahead with expropriation proceedings it would simply be procrastinating two or three years and setting back the final going to Sooke. Had the city ample water supply, till then?

The mayor said that even if the city went to Sooke Lake it would have to face litigation from the company which would be carried to the Privy Council. It would be necessary to tunnel through the Esquimalt company's land.

"We have the right to do that," said Ald. Fullerton.

The mayor replied that the first thing the company would do if the city turned a spade would be to get an injunction.

"Then they are determined to hold us up and force their property on us," was Ald. Fullerton's comment.

"The less we have to do with them the better," added Ald. Raymond.

It was decided to take the opinion of Mr. Davis, who is in the city attending full court, and present it to the council at once, when further action will be decided upon.

ENDS HIS LIFE.

Master Gunner in U. S. Coast Artillery Commits Suicide at Fort Townsend.

Fort Townsend, Wash., June 11.—Sergt. W. B. Clark, master gunner in the coast artillery service, U. S. A., committed suicide yesterday in a private residence, where he roomed, by the use of illuminating gas. Clark had been drinking heavily of late and was despondent, his companions state, on account of failure to successfully pass a recent examination for promotion to the rank of first-class gunner. The dead man was 45 years old, and had twenty years' army service. He had been several months at Fort Townsend.

BID FOR FIGHT.

Goldfield Promoters Offer Purse of $25,000 for Johnson-Kaufmann Bout.

Boston, June 11.—Fight promoters at Goldfield, Nev., to-day offered to post a purse of $25,000 for a fight between Jack Johnson and Al Kaufmann on Labor Day. Johnson declared he wanted $30,000 and said he believed the club would post that amount.

Halifax, N. S., June 11.—The Intercolonial employees are preparing a new schedule to be presented to the railway commission when it meets at Montreal.

GERMAN STEAMER BLOWN TO PIECES

EXPLOSION FOLLOWS FIRE ON THE AVA

Crew Picked Up by Passing Vessel and Landed at Algiers.

(Times Leased Wire.)

Algiers, June 11.—The crew of the German steamer Ava has arrived here on the steamer Eastgate, having been picked up off Pantellaria island yesterday, following their escape from the Ava, which was blown to pieces by a dynamite explosion. Fire broke out at night on the German steamer, which was bound from Hamburg for Vladivostok, and as dynamite formed a greater part of the cargo the crew made haste to launch the life-boats and pull away from the vessel. They were none too soon for within fifteen minutes after it had been abandoned a terrific explosion took place, which tore the vessel to pieces, covering the water with wreckage.

DEATH IN WAKE OF CYCLONE IN TEXAS

Five Persons Killed and Number of Others Seriously Injured.

(Times Leased Wire.)

Leander, Texas, June 11.—E. G. Melup and his three children were killed instantly by a cyclone that swept this district early to-day. His wife was fatally injured.

A. A. Anderson, also a resident of this city, was seriously hurt and it is thought he will not recover. Thirteen houses were demolished by the twister and fifty head of cattle killed. Damage to early crops and other property cannot yet be estimated.

Reports from the surrounding country indicate many fatalities. Scores of farm houses in the path of the cyclone were wrecked.

Cloudburst Near Fort Worth.

Fort Worth, Texas, June 11.—At least one man is dead and several others are seriously injured as the result of a terrible windstorm, accompanied by a cloudburst, that swept the surrounding country late last night. The country lying to the west of this city is said to have been severely damaged by the storm and many persons injured. Telegraph and telephone wires are down and accurate information is not available.

HENEY'S WITNESSES FAIL TO ARRIVE

Is Unable to Close Case for Prosecution in Trial of Calhoun.

(Times Leased Wire.)

San Francisco, Cal., June 11.—Because L. D. Maroney and Miss Frances Hitching, of Eureka, failed to arrive in the city in time to testify, Special Prosecutor Henev's attempt to complete the case of the prosecution in the bribery trial of Patrick Calhoun met with failure. The two witnesses desired to wind up the evidence brought by the prosecution were subpoenaed yesterday in Eureka.

Maroney is wanted to give testimony regarding the alleged attempt to bribe witness John Helms not to testify in the case.

During the early session to-day the jury was taken from the court room, and the time given over to the argument of legal points that have arisen during the trial.

KILLED IN RUNAWAY.

Micoula, Mont., June 11.—George Vanier, a former prominent proprietor of the Potomac hotel at Potomac, Mont., was killed in a runaway about six miles east of that town. Vanier left the Boles ranch near Potomac to drive a fraction team to the town, and late in the night a camper, who missed his horses found the dead man's remains lying in the wreckage of his buggy.

IN FAVOR OF CONTRACT WORK

BOARD OF TRADE DISCUSSES QUESTION

Resolution Passed Recommending Letting Out Some Street Improvements.

With but one dissenting voice, that of Alderman McKeown, the monthly general meeting of the board of trade expressed itself by resolution as favoring the letting of local improvement works by contract instead of having them done by day labor. There was considerable discussion and Alderman McKeown stood almost alone in it. J. L. Beckwith according him but a half-hearted support in his stand for day labor. There were present: President Leiser and Messrs. Pembury, S. Collins, Slater, Mann, Reid, Knight, Goward, Wallace, Pauline, Barnsley, Beckwith, Col. Prior, C. H. Luggin, Barnard, McKeown, Boggs, Beasley, Liard and Peterson.

The following resolution was moved by Simon Leiser and seconded by J. J. Shallicross: "That in the opinion of this board it is most desirable that all works of local improvement for which application has been made should be completed without delay, and that to this end the assistance of contractors should be obtained."

Mr. Leiser said that the board of trade had taken up the discussion of civic affairs for the purpose if possible of aiding the council. It was the opinion that the present method of doing work was wrong. At the present rate of progress the work in hand would take a very long time to complete, and there was other work needing attention.

J. J. Shallicross referred to the need of having the work done with efficiency and dispatch. There was no desire on the part of the board of trade or any of the advocates of contract work to have the wages of the working men lowered, but simply to push the work ahead. There was an immense lot of work in hand and much more was wanted done, amounting in all to something like $1,000,000. At present the city was employing more men than Seattle, Portland and Vancouver combined. In order to keep up with the work an immense expenditure would have to be made in plant and the difficulties of conducting the work would be much increased.

Continuing he said he did not think they should try to check the demand of property owners to make improvements at their own expense.

Ald. Turner on being called upon, said he came to the meeting to get information. They knew the stand he took. He was in full accord with the last speaker but he did not intend to make a speech.

Ald. McKeown said the city council had many difficulties to encounter. At first they thought they could get rock from Mount Tolibie, but they were stopped at that point. Then they tried the Indian reserve, but they could not get permission to go there. He showed that by getting a new crusher and roller and other machinery they could push matters and get ahead three times as fast as at present. Many of the works had been kept back by the owners themselves. They changed their minds as to the material they wanted. It was his opinion that they could get along as fast with day labor as with contract work. If a man was competent to inspect work it was his opinion that he was competent to run a gang of men and do the work himself.

Ald. Turner claimed that the city staff was unable to handle all the necessary work. It was his opinion that until the contract system was introduced they would not get ahead much faster than at present.

Col. Prior agreed with Councillor Turner that the contract system was the proper way to do the work. He thought the men would as soon have the work done that way.

H. Slater said he had some property which he wanted opened up and he found difficulty in getting it done. He favored contract labor.

J. L. Beckwith, while favoring a certain amount of contract work said the petitions called for day labor and the only way to get it done was to back up Ald. McKeown and get more machinery and push it ahead.

Ex-Ald. Pauline said it was not a question of contract versus day labor, but of setting the work in hand done. Apparently the only way to relieve the city was to give some of the work out and let contractors do it.

The motion was then put with no opposition except a faint "no" from Ald. McKeown.

PASSES SECOND READING.

Discussion of Details of British Budget May Be Prolonged Into Autumn.

London, June 11.—The House of Commons last night, by a vote of 238 to 209, passed the second reading of the finance bill. The Nationalists opposed the bill, John Redmond, the Nationalist leader, on Wednesday having notified the government that his party would vote against it on the ground that it was grossly unfair to Ireland. The principle of the bill has thus been accepted, but the discussion of the details is likely to be prolonged into autumn.

ROAD TO FORT CHURCHILL.

Prince Albert, Sask., June 11.—London capitalists are said to be behind a new railroad from Prince Albert to Fort Churchill. Senator T. G. Davis, who is promoting the scheme, says that work will start this fall.

WILL INVESTIGATE.

Inspectors to Probe Charges Regarding Meat Inspection at St. Louis Stockyards.

Washington, D. C., June 11.—An investigation of the charges that meat inspectors in the government stockyards at St. Louis disregard regulations will be made by the department of agriculture, according to an announcement made to-day.

Charges were made by J. F. Harms, inspector, who resigned after working in the yards for eighteen months. In a letter to Secretary Wilson Harms declared that the disregard for government regulations were of a sensational nature. Two inspectors have been directed to go to the St. Louis yards at once and make a thorough investigation of the conditions there.

LEAVES FOR VICTORIA TO-DAY.

(Special to the Times.)

Ottawa, June 11.—Hon. W. Templeman leaves for the coast this evening via Toronto. He expects to arrive in Victoria in the course of ten days.

Later on he will visit the Yukon mines accompanied by W. R. Brock, director of the geological survey and also the Seattle exposition.

CHICAGO WOMAN DOCTOR STABBED

Wounded for Refusing to Comply with "Black Hand" Demand.

(Times Leased Wire.)

Chicago, June 11.—Because she did not comply with a demand to place $500 in a secured safe near her home, Dr. Jennie A. Beardsley, about 40 years of age, was stabbed twice and seriously injured by alleged members of the black hand society.

That Dr. Beardsley was not killed outright, she owes to the fact that since the receipt of the letters demanding money she has worn a steel ribbed corset. She was attacked at her own door shortly after dusk last evening, when she went to answer a knock.

Two detectives, who had guarded her since the first letter was received were hiding in the house. They were unable to catch the fleeing would-be assassins.

During the past week Dr. Beardsley received several letters, demanding money, and threatening her with death if she refused. Each communication was decorated with a crude drawing of a skull and cross bones surmounting a "black hand."

TURKISH OFFICERS
KILLED IN FIGHT

(Times Leased Wire.)

Constantinople, June 11.—It is reported to-day that several Turkish officers were killed while attempting to remove Abdul Hamid, former Sultan, from Salonica palace, where he is held prisoner.

No details of the supposed attempt are available, and the reports are unverified.

No details of the supposed attempt are available, and the reports are unverified.

BIG PARADE AT EXPOSITION GROUNDS

Yakima Valley Residents Take Part in Programme at Fair.

(Times Leased Wire.)

Seattle, Wash., June 11.—This is Yakima day at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific exposition, and residents of the fruit belt of eastern Washington are on hand in great numbers to take part in the programme. A special train arrived last evening, bringing a delegation of several hundred persons representing nearly every town in the Yakima valley.

The day's events began at 10 o'clock with a parade, in which not only the delegation, but former residents of the fruit country took part. Forming at the main entrance, the line of march led through the grounds and ended at the Yakima county building, where the marchers were received by President Childers of the exposition. In his address Childers reviewed the achievements of the men who have been instrumental in developing the fruit raising industry in the Yakima region.

Granville Lowther responded for the visitors. At noon a reception was given by the officers of the exposition to 25 of the delegates, including chosen representatives of towns in the Yakima valley.

An offer of $100 for the old bathing-house on the beach off Dallas road from A. Fredericks, was accepted.

FOUND BODY IN RIVER.

Vancouver, Wash., June 11.—The body of a dead Chinaman, with his feet and hands missing, was found by Thomas Harvey and Carl Weeks, two lads out in a gasoline launch on the Columbia river. The body of the dead Chinaman was brought to the city, but could not be identified, so was buried in the potters' field.

THREE KILLED; FIVE INJURED

TRAINS WRECKED IN HEAD-ON COLLISION

Accident on Great Northern Seven Miles From Vancouver.

(Times Leased Wire.)

Vancouver, June 11.—Three trainmen met death and five persons were more or less seriously injured in a Great Northern wreck near Burrard station, Burnaby lake, yesterday afternoon, when the 3:47 o'clock Seattle flyer, coming at 38 miles an hour, crashed into the outbound Port Gulch train in a head-on collision.

The killed were: A. M. McPheters, engineer, Seattle; Robert Nichol, engineer, Port Gulch; Mr. Holcomb, fireman, Everett.

The injured are: Mrs. S. R. Wright, Clear Lake, lower limbs injured, and her three-year-old daughter, slightly bruised; Wagon Lanning, conductor, Port Gulch, back bruised, two ribs fractured; A. W. Curtis, extra engineer, Port Gulch, wrist and ankle fractured; C. S. Landeau, fireman, Port Gulch, bruised about the face.

The wreck occurred just by a curve at Wolf Spur, a spur track the other side of Burrard, near Burnaby lake. Burrard is a Great Northern station, seven miles from Vancouver.

No cause for the wreck has been officially assigned as yet and the matter is to be investigated. It has been stated, however, unofficially that the Port Gulch train should have sidetracked this side of Burrard, and wait for the flyer. As there is no telegraphic station at such places as Wolf Spur and Burrard, it is extremely difficult to watch the progress of the trains properly.

WANTED IN EAST.

Man Held at Seattle Charged With Being a Fugitive From Justice.

Seattle, Wash., June 11.—Thomas Henry, alias Frederick L. Gartley, who represented himself here as the western agent of Klaw & Erlanger, and who is now suing the city of Vancouver, B. C., for $50,000 for false imprisonment, is under arrest at the city jail to-day, charged with being a fugitive from justice. Gartley is wanted at Rochester, N. Y., according to the police, on a grand larceny charge.

Recently Gartley was arrested at Vancouver charged with assault in connection with the Deadman's Island fight. The charge against him was dismissed and he sued the city for false imprisonment.

While representing himself to be the agent of New York theatrical firms, Gartley while in Seattle several weeks ago signed a contract with Miss Doris Piper and sent her to New York to go on the stage there. She found that Gartley had no authority to engage her for Klaw & Erlanger, and she was left stranded.

The prisoner is being held for the Rochester authorities.

LAWN SPRINKLING LESSENS PRESSURE

Householders Object That They Cannot Get Water for House Use.

Residents of several of the higher parts of the city, notably in Spring Ridge, are complaining that they have a very poor water pressure, in some cases the water coming from the taps in a mere trickle. This is blamed in some measure on the fact that during this hot weather everyone has his garden sprinklers going from 5 a.m. to 8 a.m., and from 5 p.m. to 10 p.m. While the city council was in session last night the telephone bell kept ringing "angry" citizens wanting to know what was going to be done in the matter.

DRUGGISTS ELECT OFFICERS FOR YEAR

Meeting Was Held Yesterday at Oak Bay Hotel.

At the nineteenth annual meeting of the B. C. Pharmaceutical Association, held last evening at the Oak Bay hotel, the following were elected members of the council: Messrs. Jno. Cochran, Victoria; R. B. Burns, Vancouver; and J. L. White, Greenwood. These, with Messrs. J. H. Emery, E. S. Knowlton and R. J. McKenzie, are the council for the ensuing year.

At a subsequent meeting the council elected officers as follows: F. J. McKenzie, president; Jno. Cochran, vice-president; Jas. W. Browne, secretary-treasurer; Joseph H. Emery, of this city, was named to represent the province of British Columbia as delegate at the annual meeting of the Canadian Pharmaceutical Association at Banff, August 4th.

In the evening, on the conclusion of the business, a banquet was served in the Oak Bay hotel, at which the members of the association were present.

LORD'S DAY ACT IS TO BE ENFORCED

Premier McBride Gives Answer to Request of Nanaimo Delegation.

Premier McBride has given a reply to the delegation which waited upon him from Nanaimo some time ago to protest against Sunday matches being played there. The reply is as follows: Rev. J. M. Millar, Nanaimo, B. C.: "Dear Sir—I beg to state that the executive council has considered the request made to me on May 15th last by the delegation from Nanaimo, that the same consideration be shown to that city with respect to the prevention of Sunday games as in the case of North Vancouver. The executive council has decided that should a request be made to the Attorney-General for leave to prosecute under the provisions of the Lord's Day Act in regard to Sunday games at Nanaimo, said permission will be granted. Yours truly, (Signed) RICHARD MCBRIDE."

It has been decided by the delegation to try to arrange with the athletic clubs in Nanaimo to meet them and try to arrive at an amicable settlement without any danger of recourse to the courts.

DEATH OF W. A. COOPER.

Teacher at Saanich Passed Away at Hospital Yesterday.

The death occurred in this city yesterday morning of William A. Cooper at the St. Joseph's hospital. Deceased, who has been suffering for the past twelve months, entered the hospital ten days ago and underwent an operation. He was unable, however, to survive the operation and passed away yesterday. Deceased was born in Ireland 21 years ago and leaves a wife and a young son to mourn his loss. For the past 18 months he had been a school teacher at Saanich, and prior to that time was engaged in teaching at Mount Sicker. He was educated at Cambridge and Dublin universities, and had been in British Columbia for the past three years. The funeral will take place to-morrow at noon from the B. C. Funeral Furnishing Company's parlors, and at 12.10 o'clock at Christ Church Cathedral. Rev. J. W. Flinton will officiate.

Chief Justice Hunter has recovered from his recent illness sufficiently to take his seat in full court to-day.

CITIZENS MUST NOT INTERFERE IN PAVING

Mayor States Position He Will Take—Expenditures on Streets.

The city engineer was instructed by the city council last night to go ahead with the work of macadamizing Cook street, according to the by-law passed some months ago.

Mayor Hall, in this connection, stated that he wishes to go on record that as far as he is concerned with the council decided on a work the object of the people petitioning for something else must not stop the work. Great loss of time had been caused in the case of Cook street from this.

The council was informed of the refusal of the Indian department to sell the city rock off the Songhees reserve. The matter will be taken up by the streets committee to-night.

Ald. Turner inquired as to whether or not there was any public right of thoroughfare across the E. & N. bridge and the reserve.

Mayor Hall replied that there was none from what was the old Craigflower road to Store street, but there was beyond the little bridge on the road from the Marine hospital to the old Craigflower road.

Ald. Stewart entered a protest against a practice which was increasing the cost of public works to the people. This was the lumping of several works in one by-law. As soon as the first work was begun the by-law was opened up and interest on the loan began to run. Some works begun two or three years ago were not yet finished, and meanwhile the proprietors on streets where works had been done had to pay the interest on the whole loan.

He instanced cases where sidewalks had been done but the street grading was still undone. The result was that the cost of the sidewalks, through being debited with heavy interest charges, would be excessive.

Ald. Raymond mentioned that although the concrete approaches to dwellings from the sidewalks were supposed to be paid for at once there were numerous cases where no bills had been sent out yet. There was a lot of city money lying out in the street in this way.

Ald. Ross expressed the opinion that two much was being spent on boulevards and permanent sidewalks and not enough on the roadways. If two or three gangs were taken off sidewalk work and put on street maintenance he thought it would be a wise move.

Ald. McKewen, speaking of the condition of the streets, said that $64,000 had been estimated for this work at the beginning of the year and given to the engineer without restrictions. It was now up to the engineer, and if there was any fault to be found next fall Ald. McKewen warned his colleagues he was going to find fault.

The council took up the matter of the parks board for a few minutes but dropped it without taking any action. The mayor remarked that the board would never work any way with a majority of citizens upon it.

BENNETT SOUTHAIRD.

Well Known Local Actor Has Had Good University Training.

Sweet Lavender, at the Victoria theatre this week, played by the Gardiner company, is drawing good houses. The play is a poor wholesome comedy in good hands. Through a somewhat singular coincidence a well known actor and two promising young playwrights were graduated in the same class from an American university, well known for its distinguished faculty, and the high standard of scholarship. Richard Walton Tully, co-author with David Belasco of "The Girl of the Golden West," and Elmer B. Harris, whose play "The Offenders" was produced in the Victoria theatre, is the actor. Their alma mater is the University of California, where they both received Bachelors of Letters in 1901. Tully, Harris and Southard were a trio well known as dramatic producers in the four years they were at Berkeley. It was here that latter wrote the first comedy called "An Imp Inoc." and while yet at street graduate played the leading part for a week with a company of student players at the old Grand opera house in San Francisco in the well known Tully farce, afterwards widely known and played in the States as "A Strenuous Life."

This emphasizes the now accepted fact that a large proportion of the successful actors of the younger generation have had the advantage of a university training. It is not so long ago that a college education would have been scorned as part of the equipment of an actor, but like everything else nowadays, the stage is demanding higher standards.

WANTED TO COME HERE.

Visitor to Victoria Will Have to Labor in Jail.

A vagrant who made a determined effort to get into the city and succeeded in a round about way after being turned back by the police at the wharf, was sentenced in the police court this morning to three months' imprisonment with hard labor.

The man first came from Seattle and was returned immediately he set foot on the wharf. He then returned to Seattle and came here by way of Vancouver, evading the police on arrival for a few hours. He was later picked up in town and lodged in jail to await trial.

PERSONAL.

Mrs. Richard Nash and children, who have been visiting in Southern California, have returned to Victoria and are at present staying at the Dallas hotel.

Mrs. Chas. Plumb will not receive at her residence, 223 North Park street, during the summer months.

Mrs. D. C. Reid was a passenger on the Princess Victoria from Seattle at noon to-day.

The time limit for the completion of Wharf street paving has been made three months from the signing of the contract instead of two, the city to furnish the brick on the wharf. The city council has taken this action in view of the possibility of delays during the progress of the work from causes beyond the contractor's control.

LIABILITY FOR SAFE TRAVEL ON ROADS

New Westminster Sued for Damages for Accident Caused by Hole.

That a person using the highroad must look out for defects in it was the doctrine advanced by W. G. McQuarrie, city solicitor of New Westminster, in the argument on the appeal of Thomas Cooksley against a decision of Judge Howay, dismissing his claim for damages against the municipality. Cooksley and his wife were drawing when their horse stepped into a hole caused by a box culvert giving way and was killed.

E. P. Davis, K.C., for the appellant, argued that the law as to liability for accidents caused through negligence in the maintenance of roads on sidewalks was clear.

Mr. McQuarrie relied on some English and New Brunswick cases, and maintained that the appellant should have looked out for himself.

Chief Justice Hunter, who heard the appeal with Justices Irving and Clement, commented drily on the magnanimity of the municipality in not setting up contributory negligence as a defence.

Judgment was reserved.

In the mechanics' lien case judgment was reserved yesterday afternoon. In Allan vs. Ray, an appeal from Judge Grant in a dispute as to the amount of money which should have been put up under a grub-staking agreement, the court held that defendant who appealed, must pay the money claimed, but that respondent must enter into an undertaking that the money be spent on the mine.

LORD MORLEY SPEAKS ON PEACE

ADDRESSES IMPERIAL PRESS CONFERENCE

Lord Milner Repudiates Notion That Defence Means Defiance.

London, June 10.—The final meeting of the Imperial Press Conference was held to-day, when the subject of "Literature and Journalism" was discussed. Lord Morley, secretary for India, presided, and among those present were Augustine Birrell, chief secretary of state for Ireland; Lord Milner, former high commissioner in South Africa; and Winston Churchill, president of the board of trade.

Lord Morley delivered a suggestive and provocative address, tinged with dry humor. He asked the editors to strike for two moderate aims, simplicity and directness. He said the presence of literary elements in the editor differentiated him from the newsboy shouting scareheads. There was a vast improvement apparent in journalism and criticism, but he wondered how far the press had its share in the general forces which were bringing about the present European situation.

Lord Morley put forth the claim that the English tongue was a stronger and more enduring bond of imperial union than anything else; a thousand times stronger than the achievements of soldiers and sailors and statesmen who had directed them. "I know of no more stupendous and overwhelming fact," Lord Morley said, "than the supreme dominance of the English tongue over the millions in the new world in the west and the ancient worlds in the east." Referring to what he called the "rebarbarism of Europe, the rattling back into arms and the preparations to use arms," of which so much had been heard in the course of the conference, Lord Morley said he thought the press was more answerable for this than all the ministers, officials, and diplomats taken together, and he pleaded for a systematic and persevering work on the part of newspapers in behalf of peace among the nations.

Winston Churchill, representing the advanced Radical section of the Cabinet, ironically complimented the conference upon its wonderful self-command, noble equanimity and iron nerve in engaging in a calm discussion on literature on the eve of an appalling Armageddon. He would not in striking contrast with the speeches of Rosebery, Grey, McKenna, and Balfour, by insisting that the journalists' duty was to ally, not inflame, international suspicion, and to encourage belief in the interdependence of nations as comrades and brothers. He reminded the pressmen that confidence bred confidence between nations, and hatred and suspicion bred the dangers from which they originated.

Lord Milner, Lord Milner said they had heard much about the rebarbarization of Europe, but he thought it dreadful nonsense. If they reflected they would remember that disputes between nations were now settled less by war than ever before. One of the most powerful reasons was that nations were organized on a system of national armies, and it is citizen armies which make for peace. He repudiated the notion that defence meant defiance, and held that adequate defence of the empire in these anxious times was the best safeguard for peace.

Mr. Birrell Mr. Birrell kept the conference in great humor with a characteristically witty speech. He could not understand why the fourth estate should assume the shackles of party, which the other estates of the realm must take up, and reminded them that the fortunes of not only one empire but of the world might largely depend in future upon their fitness for their task as writers; whether they wrote books or wrote day by day.

Sir Ed. Russell, of the Liverpool Daily Post, T. P. O'Connor, Mr. Banerjee, of Bengal, and Dr. Engleberg, of Pretoria, also contributed. A motion of thanks to the speakers was proposed by J. A. Macdonald, of Toronto.

Balfour's Speech.
The business meeting was followed by the Constitutional Club luncheon. Mr. Balfour presiding over a highly representative gathering of Unionists, which, however, included prominent non-party men like Lord Strathcona. Mr. Balfour said they welcomed the overseas delegates not as Unionists but as fellow-citizens of the empire. An incidental reference of his preference was loudly cheered, but Mr. Balfour.

SAVED FROM AN OPERATION

By Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound

Belleriver, Que.—"Without Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound I would not be alive. For five months I had painful and irregular periods and inflammation of the uterus. I suffered like a martyr and thought often of death. I consulted two doctors who could do nothing for me. I went to a hospital, and the best doctors said I must submit to an operation, because I had a tumor. I went back home much discouraged. One of my cousins advised me to take your Compound, as it had cured her. I did so and soon commenced to feel better, and the tumor came back with the first bottle. Now I feel no pain and am cured. Your remedy is deserving of praise."—MRS. EMMA CHATEL, Valleyfield, Belleriver, Quebec.

Another Operation Avoided.
Arian, Ga.—"I suffered untold misery from female troubles, and my doctor said an operation was my only chance, and I dreaded it almost as much as death. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound completely cured me without an operation."—LENA V. HENRY, R.F.D. 3.

Thirty years of unparalleled success confirms the power of Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound to cure female diseases.

while declaring his firm adherence to that means of promoting co-operation said this was not the time or place to discuss it. He set himself to console Canadians and Australians for the pain they sometimes underwent because of English ignorance. He, as a Scotsman, suffered, if suffering it be, from the flagrant English ignorance on, say, the vital question of Scottish ecclesiasticism. (Laughter.)

The part of his speech which, however, most deeply impressed the delegates and the whole audience was when he declared with marked emphasis that the old idea of Empire unity based upon paternalism had forever passed away. On the question of imperial defence, no jarring note had been struck. All local security must in the end depend upon the general security. No statesmen, he added, ever before had the task that now looms before Britain and the Dominions. No other empire had ever been attempted or based upon the fundamental principle of common action of members, none of them subordinate, all of them equal, but in their very equality ready to co-operate.

A Canadian speaker at the conference had said that there was a certain jealous anxiety among sections of the population of Canada lest there should be any attempt on the part of this country to accept any organization which might interfere with control by Canada of anything that Canada desired to do. That fear might have been justified in earlier days, but the days of the old relations of parent and child was gone forever. (Cheers.) No party here holds that view any longer. On that point let there be neither doubt nor hesitation. (Loud Cheers.) Everybody recognizes we have now reached the stage of equality. Nobody desires to disturb it. All recognize that absolute independence is no bar to some form of organization or to unity and deeper common feeling, and whatever forces arrayed against us, the patriotism, self-sacrifice and public spirit of the British race will not be found unequal to any trial to which it may be put. (Cheers.)

ESTABLISH COLONY IN CALIFORNIA

Five Hundred Families Will Come From Italy to Settle on Land.

San Francisco, Cal., June 11.—Giuseppe Garibaldi, grandson of the Italian patriot, Garibaldi, is negotiating for the purchase of fourteen thousand acres of land in Marin county near San Rafael, upon which he intends to establish a colony of five hundred Italian families. Garibaldi, who has done extensive work in Australia and South America for the immigration department of the Italian government, has been in this city for nearly a month, and has been quietly at work on his project. He stated that the deal for the Marin county lands probably would be closed within the present week.

According to his statement, Garibaldi plans to subdivide his land and parcel it out among Italian families. He said: "Many Italians coming to this country are compelled to work as day laborers until they save money enough to bring their families across the ocean. Then the saving process must begin all over if they are to be enabled to buy land and become independent. My plan will permit them to acquire property without tedious and discouraging delay. The land will be given out according to the known ability of the men who are to work it. They will be permitted to clear their titles by easy and gradual payments. During the seasons when the men's time is not required on the farms, employment will be guaranteed them elsewhere. Already I have received more than sufficient applications from ambitious Italians to take over all the land."

DENIES MARRIAGE TO INDIAN PRINCESS

Joaquin Miller Says Woman Saved His Life in Pioneer Days in West.

San Jose, Cal., June 11.—Denying the romantic story of his early marriage to Sutot, a Shasta Indian woman who died recently in Redding, Joaquin Miller yesterday stated that he always regarded the Indian as one of his best and truest friends and paid a warm tribute to her womanliness and character. The story told by the venerable poet of the California mountains, while not authenticating the tales of his attachment to the Indian princess, is filled with the romance of the pioneer western days.

During the Indian uprisings of the early fifties, Sutot saved Miller's life and nursed him back to health after he had received almost fatal wounds during a bloody battle. "All the Shasta tribesmen were my friends," said Miller, "and when the pioneer had trouble with the unruly Modocs, the Shastas fought shoulder to shoulder with the white men. "During the fiercely fought battle of Castle Rock in 1855, many of the Shastas were slain. I was wounded in the head by an arrow and through the body by a bullet. After the battle, Sutot, whose two brothers had fallen in the fighting, had me removed to her own tent and cared for me tenderly until I was able to be taken down the river."

"During my convalescence I went to Europe and while on the continent I learned that Sutot had been taken prisoner by the Modocs. Later, I was happy to hear that Jim Brock, the noted scout, had secured her release and had made her his wife. "All stories that I married Sutot were cut from whole cloth. She nursed me back to life after I had been shot down. She was an Indian, and without so-called advantages of civilization, but she had a soul as white as the snow-covered summit of Mount Shasta, and I mourn her as one of my own people."

SUNDAY SCHOOL ANNIVERSARY

Over One Hundred Thousand Children March Through Streets of Brooklyn.

New York, June 11.—Over 100,000 Sunday school children marched through the streets of Brooklyn in a parade yesterday. They were reviewed by Vice-President, Sherman, Governor Hughes and other notables. The occasion was the eightieth anniversary celebration of the Brooklyn Sunday School Union, an organization composed of all the Protestant Sunday schools of the city, and while the weather conditions were anything but auspicious the event was by far the most successful of the kind ever held here.

MEAT INSPECTION

East St. Louis Inspector Says It Is a Farce and Demands Investigation.

St. Louis, June 11.—Denouncing government inspection of meats at the national stock yards at East St. Louis as a farce, and demanding an investigation, J. F. Harms has sent a letter to Secretary Wilson announcing his resignation as meat inspector. Harms has worked as an inspector for eighteen months. He declares he has learned that there is a sensational disregard of the rules of inspection.

WINNIPEG COMMAND OF FRONTIERSMEN

Valuable Addition to Fighting Force of Empire in the Legion.

The executive of the Winnipeg commands of the Legion of Frontiersmen is to be congratulated on the success which has lately attended the efforts to make the corps a real and valuable addition to the military assets at the disposal of the government, says the Telegram. Approximately half a squadron of men have now been enrolled, and the interest taken in the organization is continuing to increase. This organization is probably unique in the history of the military organizations of the world, and is a credit to the imagination of the noble Canadian in whose mind the scheme originated, and who has done so much towards its organization at the headquarters of the Legion in London, Eng. The object is to create a body supplementary to without interfering with existing military forces, and the legion will not accept as a member any man who belongs to any militia or volunteer corps, or who is available for either of these. The recruits are called from among those who have neither the time nor the opportunities for attending regular drills, from among explorers, prospectors, sailors, railroad builders, cowboys, bronco-busters, lumbermen, hunters and trappers, and from amongst those veterans of the wilds who have learned by past experience, the hard knocks that are to be got in these callings, though they have returned for a time to the confines of civilization. The scheme is peculiarly fitting to the younger nations of the empire. There is no other empire in the world where so large a proportion of the population is engaged in frontier callings, and no other has, therefore, the same opportunities and resources for creating an organization like that of the legion. At the same time no other empire has so many new and

NEWS, UNFORGED AND UP TO DATE.

The excellence of the news service which the Times has been enabled to supply its readers since it adopted the modern method of having a telegraph wire run directly into the office of publication has, not unnaturally, raised anything but amiable feelings in the minds of its city contemporaries. As a result of direct connection with eastern and western news centres, and having a special wire reserved exclusively for our use, instead of being dependent upon a system under which commercial business takes first place and newspaper business a very bad second, not a day passes in which our readers are not furnished with details of important events of an exclusive, often of a momentous, nature. The report of the proceedings at the meeting of the German Naval League, held last Saturday, during which sentiments of a most unsensational character were expressed and avowed hostility to Great Britain openly and candidly proclaimed, and published exclusively in this city by the Times, in particular has generated zeal and bitterness in the breasts of the Matson battery of newspapers. It has been charged that the dispatches in question were faked, that their publication has been "universally condemned" throughout Canada, and that the effect of them is likely to "precipitate war between England and Germany." Such charges, from such a source, from a source which has an established reputation for forging dispatches and altering documents to suit its purposes, are scarcely worthy of notice, we admit. But as there is a possibility that there are readers of the organs in question who are not familiar with their history and reputation, it may be nothing more than justice to ourselves to state that not a word of condemnation has appeared in any newspaper of Canada with reference to the dispatch in which the proceedings at the meeting of the German Naval League were summarized. The Times is in receipt of every newspaper of importance in Canada, and not one of them has called in question the authenticity of the report.

The Winnipeg Free Press, one of the leading newspapers of the country in the matter of collecting news, one of the strongest journals of Canada editorially, and one of the most carefully edited newspapers of the Dominion besides, published a dispatch from Kiel which, if anything, was more sensational in its terms than that which appeared in the Times on Saturday last.

Our dispatch said: "Hostility to England marked nearly every utterance at the annual meeting of the German Navy League to-day. Statements were made which it is believed will have a grave bearing upon the strained relations between Germany and Great Britain and a delicate international situation has nearly reached a crisis which may mean war." Then followed reports of the remarks of Admiral Koester and of Count Reventlow, fittingly described as of a most fiery character, challenging the right of Great Britain to assume naval supremacy of the world. "England has no divine right to dominate the ocean," said the Count. "Germany and other reigning powers must contest for supremacy. Germany must at least rule the North Sea, and no interference with her will be brooked."

The Free Press's report of the proceedings is as follows:
 Kiel, June 7.—The "strongest anti-English note yet heard in German semi-official circles dominated Saturday's annual meeting of the German Navy League, under the presidency of Admiral Koester. All dissimulation was thrown aside and the delegates openly advocated the accelerated up-building of the German navy "to contest the present naval supremacy of England."

In nearly every utterance there was marked hostility to England and the resolutions, which were adopted unanimously, plainly favor the building of a German navy that will stand supreme in the world. The annual report disclosed that there are nearly million members of the league, all clamoring for a bigger navy. The league also went on record in urging Germany to be supreme in aerial equipment, expressing its belief that the wars of the future will be decided in the air.

President Koester's speech was sensational in the extreme. "Our naval policy must be persevered in," he said. "Germany must continue her work and perfect a fleet which will enable us to cope with our most powerful rivals. There must be no going backwards because of criticism from abroad."

"A fleet that will keep the German nation where it belongs among the powers of the world is an immediate necessity."

"England's claim that she must rule the seas is preposterous," he declared, as the entire assemblage applauded. "England has no divine right to dominate the ocean. Germany and the other reigning naval powers must contest for supremacy. Germany must at least rule the North Sea and no interference with her can be brooked."

Prince Henry of Prussia made a speech to the conference this afternoon in which he extolled the work of the naval league. By so doing he is considered to have given virtual approval of the utterances made against England.

Then follows a description of the manner in which the report was received in England:
 London, June 7.—While details of the meeting of the German Naval League at Kiel have not been received here, the fact that the Germans openly threw off the cloak of secrecy and admit Germany's intention of wresting from England control of the seas, has merely accentuated the bitterness of the British anti-German feeling.

The extreme national anti-German feeling is so intense that nothing short of actual war could add to it.

The effect of the German Naval League meeting, however, is certain to be the immediate construction of the eight new Dreadnought type of battleships, which the British government had hoped to delay because of the condition of the national finances.

Despite the attempts of the highest officials to reassure the British nation, the people generally are convinced that Germany's sole purpose in strengthening her fleet is for the purpose of attacking England.

It is claimed on all sides that the German hostility to England is so pronounced that even in theatres their slurs on Great Britain are the surest way the performers can make themselves popular.

The Naval League meeting following so closely on the heels of the admission that the Kaiser and the Czar are to meet, has done more to convince the British public that Germany is their enemy than anything that could have happened.

With Russia lined up alongside of Germany, Austria and Italy against England, the inclusion of France in the compact is confidently expected, and there is a seeming disposition on the part of many influential Englishmen to favor the plan of picking a quarrel with Germany at once, and then sending the vast English fleet to wipe out the German navy before it can be made strong enough to effectively defeat the British navy on sea and before its system of airships can be made practicable.

After all, calmly reviewing the events of the past couple of weeks, can it be honestly said that the remarks of German speakers at the Naval League meeting were one whit more sensational, alarming or fiery than the words of Lord Roberts, Mr. Balfour or Earl Grey at public assemblies in London?

Nothing could be more repugnant to the mind of a thoughtful man, not to say to the mind of a statesman imbued with a fitting sense of his responsibilities, than a thought of the awful consequences of a war between two such powers as Great Britain and Germany, not to speak of the possibility of a general European conflagration. We do not believe that a conflict will occur. We do believe that the passions at present so inflamed will cool off, and that before long the representatives of the two nations will be wondering what all the fuss was about. At the same time the people want to know all about every movement and every utterance bearing upon the situation and the Times is the only newspaper in Victoria having the facilities to give that information. Scarcely a day passes during which evidence of that fact is not furnished.

SLOTHFULNESS IN CIVIC WORK.

The Victoria Board of Trade believes the city could get better value for its money and that the rate of civic improvement would be greatly accelerated if the contract system were adopted in carrying out much of the municipal work. We believe a majority of the people of the city are of the same opinion as the Board of Trade. Undoubtedly a strong public sentiment has sprung up that the work being done by day labor is not prosecuted with all the diligence that could be desired. Nor is there any doubt that if the contract system had been adopted in connection with the reconstruction of the municipal water works, or at least in connection with all portions of that work with the exception of the Smith's Hill Reservoir, the job would have been completed and most of the complaints now being voiced vociferously and with justice about the shortage of water would be unnecessary. As the case stands, although pledges were given that there would be an abundant supply of water during the present summer, the truth is that probably never before in some sections of the city was the shortage causing greater inconvenience and annoyance.

The latest assurance is that the reservoir on the hill will be completed in about two weeks and that after that job is completed there will be no justification for lodging complaints. But assurances of that nature have been given so often that the public has lost all confidence in them. Nothing will satisfy it but practical demonstration. On the whole things appear to have worked together most beautifully to discredit the day labor system of doing civic work, although it may be quite true as alleged by its defenders that it is not the system but the manner of administration that is at fault. In any case, no one will attempt to controvert this position of the man who says that as he has to pay for all work carried out under the local improvement plan he should have the privilege, nay the right, of selecting the manner in which the work shall be performed.

It is hardly worth while, we know, but might we call the attention of the tyro who had the nerve to question the authenticity of the Times's dispatch giving particulars of the German Naval League meeting to the following remark made by Baron Engel at that meeting as reported in an Eastern Canadian newspaper which, like the Times, has facilities for gathering the news? The Baron said: "Germany must create a naval armament which will be powerful enough to wrest control of the seas from England."

There is no doubt about it—Victoria is unique among the cities of the world. She is surrounded by lakes at a high elevation and within a comparatively few miles of the municipal boundaries. Yet she cannot get water in sufficient quantities to satisfy water consumers. There are mountains of rock, if not within the city limits, at least closely contiguous to the city. Yet it appears to be impossible to procure rock for street making. Who is to blame? Anybody?

G. H. Barnard, M. P., says the Songhees Reserve question appears to be no nearer a settlement than it was fifty years ago. Let us see, did not Mr. Barnard give a solemn pledge that if he could not remove the reserve grievance within a certain time he would resign his seat? Is he likely to redeem that pledge? Does anyone who knows Mr. Barnard look forward to its redemption?

More in sorrow than in anger may we be permitted to point out that it is a lamentable thing to see, the oldest newspaper in British Columbia doing all in its power to stimulate the gambling spirit in the community. Few of us would care if the class who make a living by vicious methods should pick each other to the very bones; but it is surely a serious thing by means of "decoy ducks" to attempt to lure the thoughtless and the credulous into the snare.

What Other People Think

BUSH FIRES AND FIRE WARDENS.

To the Editor:—All sportsmen in the city have been worrying over the big bush fire that has been raging for the last week in the neighborhood of Shawnigan Lake, as there is no doubt that hundreds of young grouse have been cremated. We should all like to know what steps, if any, the fire warden for that district is taking to locate the responsible parties, and if not, why are no inquiries being made? HEB.

AN OLD-FASHIONED DISCIPLINARIAN.
 To the Editor:—A business man in Victoria has recently been much annoyed by run-away knocking and ringing at his door. On Sunday evening he was again disturbed by this unbecomingly old joke. He opened the door and gave chase to two boys who were running away, and succeeded in catching and stopping them, for which I ask him to accept my warmest sympathies.

However, he was taken to court by his persecutors, fined $5, and told by the magistrate he should have done nothing more than "take their names and report them to their fathers."

I tried this upon one occasion in a much more flagrant case (having failed to catch and box the boys' ears, and lose

$5, when I met with no satisfaction from the father, who was defiant, and made every excuse he could think of for his son. Not long ago Queen Alexandra, as the story goes, was driving near Sandringham and saw a boy ill-treating a dog. Her Majesty promptly got out of her carriage to help the dog, and boxed the boy's ears soundly, but never reported him to his father. She had more sense. It is to be hoped it reached the parental ears and that the timely-ruffing administered by the Queen was well supplemented by the father, if he had any sense. R. F.

THEATRES AND THEATRE-GOERS.

To the Editor:—I have felt for a long time past, and the feeling is shared by a number of others, that a modern first-class theatre is a necessity in Victoria. The old "Victoria" has long past served its usefulness in this respect; its appointments and accommodations are inadequate to a city of nearly forty thousand population. The house cannot play the better class shows and still keep the prices of admission within reasonable bounds, consequently they fail to engage here. What we lose by failing to make Victoria the headquarters of amusement is best realized by the cities of Vancouver and Seattle.

With these feelings I attended the Victoria theatre last evening. Judge of my surprise when I say that less than one-third of the seats were taken. "Sweet Lavender" by the Edmund Gardiner Co., an excellent production, well played by a company whose work has never been equalled here, had failed to attract, or to receive the applause that the hands of theatre-goers they were fairly entitled to. Here is a case of good, clean plays by the best known authors, reasonable prices of admission, a capable, painstaking, company playing to almost empty houses.

Other aggregations have visited us and have failed in like manner. Some of the best productions that have played the old Victoria theatre have had to pay for their experience here. Why is it? Is the wealth, beauty and intellect of the capital city satisfied with the questionable jokes often heard in the vaudeville shows here, or do they want something more of a refined and elevating character?

Until this question can be answered, I for one have no stock subscription to build a modern play house. This is the purse practical side of it. This view is possibly shared by others who have had the question forced upon them before I, too, had realized it, and it is most likely the reason that the plans for a new theatre have not taken definite shape are this. SUMMER TRAVEL.

Indications Point to a Heavy Influx—Hotels Prepare For It.

The summer travel here this year from indication at present promises to be greater than any previous tourist season. The western attraction of the A.Y.P. fair and the additional drawing card of the local race meeting are the factors which will be responsible for keeping the hotels of the city full to their capacity throughout the summer.

All the hotels are at present full, the Dominion has been meeting all demands on its capacity up to the present but has all along been full since before the opening of the fair and the commencement of the races. The big new Dominion hotel bus imported here by special steamer was put on the street for traffic yesterday for the first time resplendent in new paint and lettering. It is the largest hotel bus running in the North American continent and is running in conjunction with the two other large buses of the hotel. Its capacity is twenty-eight passengers.

The other hotels of the city are all full and the proprietors anticipate that the business will remain at the capacity of the hotels all the summer.

The A.Y.P. fair is the big western attraction this year and its attractiveness has not washed away its point of view. Victoria is the visiting point of thousands who are at present visiting Seattle. Those who shortly the hotel men say be coming across here attracted by the city itself as well as by the races. There are hundreds who will come for the race meet as its success becomes widely known and many hundreds who will come to visit the city. The consequence will be a record season here.

—The first subject down for discussion on the agenda paper of the board of trade at its regular monthly meeting yesterday afternoon was "Tramway Affairs." In opening the proceedings Simon Leiser, president, referred to the fact that the matter of giving the Tramway Company increased powers was to be taken up that night, so it might not be wise for the board to discuss it until they saw what was done at this meeting. It was, therefore, decided to lay it over to the next monthly meeting.

Another question affecting the Tramway Company was the proposal which had been discussed on previous occasions for the company to lay rails on the streets on which wholesale merchants could receive or deliver their goods. Mr. Goward being present was asked if anything could be done in this matter.

Mr. Goward expressed the opinion that it was rather a big order to expect rails to be laid on all the business streets. This was especially true when the city had an action at law against the company to restrain them from doing that very thing. Further than that, he said there was a difficulty in the mechanical arrangements. When the legal point was out of the way they would take it up with the C. P. R. and see what could be done.

It was decided to refer this to the next general meeting.

INTERESTING LECTURE ON INDIAN MISSIONS

Returned Missionary Tells of Conditions Prevailing in That Country.

The illustrated lecture on India given by Mr. Hazen in the lecture room of the First Congregational church last evening was most enjoyable and instructive. Mr. Hazen has spent eight years in Central India and was thoroughly conversant with his subject. In his short introductory talk he called attention to the fact that the natives of India need relief from their sufferings first and preaching to afterwards. That, the speaker said, had always been his method; first, to benefit them physically as far as possible, and when their minds had become in a degree receptive then to present to them the gospel truths.

The lantern slides were, he said, used with splendid effect by many missionaries in carrying on their work. With them they illustrated the gospel truths. Mrs. Hazen then sang without accompaniment a plaintive Indian melody, and the lantern slides were given by the lecturer, accompanied by short descriptive sketches of each picture presented.

The first scene shown was the magnificent railway station at Bombay. It was followed by the Bombay municipal buildings. The magnificence of both were a surprise to the audience.

Some very interesting views were shown of the caves of India, all of which are hewn out of the solid rock, some with pillared interiors which resemble cathedrals. In these caves are the carved images of idols, and different animals, chiefly lions.

One beautiful shrine was shown, the tomb of an empress, which was in white marble, adorned with very finely carved lattice work and precious stones.

In all the public buildings of India one struck with the thought of what an infinite amount of time and labor must have been consumed in their erection and ornamentation.

Another surprise to many was the picture of a public road which was not only wide and bordered with large trees, but was likewise macadamized. This, the lecturer said, was a fair sample of the roads in India leading between the principal cities.

An extremely interesting picture was the Cashmere gate at Delhi, which was the centre of attack of the British forces when they besieged the city. It is riddled with bullet holes, and while it stands will remain a monument to the many brave men who lost their lives in the attempt to force a way through.

A fantastic group of "human tigers" was shown. These are men who paint themselves with black and yellow stripes, affix an artificial bamboo tail with a tuft of hair at the end to their bodies, and go through the country calling on their gods.

Pictures of the banyan tree with its pendant roots was of interest. Some of the trees cover an acre.

Turning from the evidences of the vast wealth of India, the reverse side of the picture was shown; the squalid misery of the poorer classes, their primitive methods of carrying on their different occupations, the hopelessness of their lives.

At the close of his lecture Mr. Hazen was given a hearty vote of thanks.

TRAM LINES IN CITY.
Board of Trade Touched on Subject at Monthly Meeting.

The first subject down for discussion on the agenda paper of the board of trade at its regular monthly meeting yesterday afternoon was "Tramway Affairs." In opening the proceedings Simon Leiser, president, referred to the fact that the matter of giving the Tramway Company increased powers was to be taken up that night, so it might not be wise for the board to discuss it until they saw what was done at this meeting. It was, therefore, decided to lay it over to the next monthly meeting.

Another question affecting the Tramway Company was the proposal which had been discussed on previous occasions for the company to lay rails on the streets on which wholesale merchants could receive or deliver their goods. Mr. Goward being present was asked if anything could be done in this matter.

Mr. Goward expressed the opinion that it was rather a big order to expect rails to be laid on all the business streets. This was especially true when the city had an action at law against the company to restrain them from doing that very thing. Further than that, he said there was a difficulty in the mechanical arrangements. When the legal point was out of the way they would take it up with the C. P. R. and see what could be done.

It was decided to refer this to the next general meeting.

RECORDS ARE BEING LOWERED

FAST TIME MADE AT WILLOWS TRACK

Yesterday's Races Marked by Quick Time in Different Events.

The Willows race track will be a famous oval of ground by the time the race meeting is through if the records continue to be smashed as they have so far been, almost every time the horses run the distance for the five days the races have been running. Virgil Cassie put up a four and a half record of 56 3-5 Saturday, and yesterday Phillistina took a fifth off it in the first race of the day. On Parole equalled the Virgil Cassie performance in the second race of yesterday, and Marwood in the third event sent all performances spinning when he slipped round the dirt in an even 56, lowering everything that has been marked up at the distance.

Two other track records went by the board, but for longer distances. Columbia Maid, owned by G. M. Johnston, the popular, went the five furlongs in 1:02, taking off 2-5 of Redondo's Saturday record. Johnston formerly held the record for the seven furlong distance, but Altamor yesterday cut three-fifths from it, and made it an even 1:29, which will take some lowering. After this it seems unnecessary to say the track was fast yesterday.

Columbia Maid was the highest price that slipped across yesterday, the mare closing in a field of seven at 5 to 1 against her, with the famous Fern L. 66, a poorly backed favorite. Fern L. ran nowhere, and there was very little money on her. Her owner was ensconced in one of the chalk artist's boxes. Fern L. will be the very nice bet when she is about 4 to 1.

Columbia Maid escaped from letting the 20 to 1. My Choice, home at the finish by one and a half lengths, and Burleigh beat All Alone by a head for the third money. Phillistina, winner of the first at 4 to 1, and Altamor, winner of the last at 4 opening, 9 to 2 closing.

Because a cigar is made of Cuban tobacco does not mean that it's a good cigar. Depends entirely upon the kind of Cuban tobacco it is made of. Not only does Cuba produce the finest cigar tobacco grown, but some of the worst. Prince Rupert Cigars are made from the choicest Vegas tobaccos of the Vuelta Abajo Valley—the finest cigar tobacco grown in the world.

Sixth race—Seven furlongs. Purse. Three-year-olds. Value to first $150.

Horse and Jockey	Op.	Cl.
Altamor, Matthews	4	9-2
Ocean Queen, W. McIntyre	4-5	1-2
Fredonia, McBride	4	5
Maid of Gotham, Quay	6	8
Footloose, McLaughlin	5	5
Time—1:29.

The downhill of Zelina in the third race was a surprise to many, running fourth to Marwood, Hervies and Escalante, all of them 3 to 1 shots, with Zelina a 5 to 2 bet.

Burleigh, from his running in the five furlongs, is a horse to win in a short time. He needs another race and will then be the one best bet if the field is not to class. Running third yesterday to Columbia Maid and My Choice, he was driving hard at the finish.

Jacomo was three lengths a winner in the mile and quarter, the race was a horse race and the finish with a field of seven saw six of them inside eight lengths.

For the last race of the day Altamor made a surprising run in the home stretch, and took the race away from Ocean Queen in the final two lengths.

Matthews sent the winner ahead and put nearly a length between first and second, riding a well-judged race when the favorite had looked a winner. Fredonia was third in the money.

The win of On Parole yesterday marks up the first win of the meet for a lady owner. The horse is owned by Mrs. Jenkins.

George Fraser was in the judge's stand yesterday officiating.

Starter Weber again got his fields away in smart time yesterday. Weber always is good, especially on the last race of the day.

The city band has been re-engaged for next week, and will play each day at the track.

The first driving race of the meeting will be on Saturday, when there will be seven events on the card instead of six.

A fall has been constructed at the track. It is not pretentious, and is for the use of the public.

So far it has remained empty of an occupant. It is meant to hold any indiscreet individual.

The race of J. H. Barr, of last Wednesday, when he packed his pounds and beat such good ones as Quality Street and Electrowan, is worthy of note, and makes him formidable in the Ladies' Plate should his owner name him.

Fire ran a very impressive race on Monday last, when he defeated a fair field, and incidentally ran the four furlong in 55 2-5. Maternus has not shown his real form as yet. His race of Tuesday, when he finished third to Lewiston, was probably his best effort.

There is one that has not yet been uncovered and that one is Abihu, owned by Joe James. This colt is by Cesarion, which has produced more winning two year olds this year than any other sire.

Abihu is one of the few horses of the present year to win at the good odds of 100 to 1, this being accomplished at Santa Anita early in the present year.

In Abihu Mr. James has a most useful colt and one that may furnish a surprise in Saturday's race.

Other good ones in the eligible list are: Barney Mason, Terrago, Otranto, Quality Street, Eddie Graney, Cesarion, Sainetta and Miss Picnic.

He—Will you share my lot?
She—Yes, when you have a house on it that is paid for—Judge.

The day after the club meeting the lady egotist and the sarcastic lady met again.

"I suppose," said the former, "that the rest of you talked about me after I left."

"Oh, no," rejoined the other. "We tried of that subject while you were there."—The Pittsburg Observer.

"What in the world are you crying about, Johnny?" asked the teacher kindly.

"You said that if the earth was flattened out the sea would be two miles deep all over it."

"But—but, teacher, I can't swim."

A man must always be present when he is being shaved. This is one rule that has no exception.

FIFTEEN INNINGS AT VANCOUVER Home Team Defeats Seattle—Results of League Games.

(Times Leased Wire.)

Vancouver, June 10.—Vancouver fans were treated to 15 innings of baseball this afternoon at the local ball yard in the Northwestern League game. In the ninth inning, with the first two men down, the Vancouver batters started a batting spree, and before the third man was retired they had chased three runs across the rubber, thereby tying the score. Both teams then settled down until Vancouver sent the winning run over in the fifteenth by a squeeze play. It was a great contest, the longest affair the fans have been treated to in two seasons, and both teams putting up the real article and scrapping all the way. Score for 15 innings:

M. C. C. DEFEATS THE AUSTRALIANS

Colonial Cricketers Were Handicapped on Strange Grounds.

The M. C. C. beat the Australians at Lord's by three wickets, but it took them nearly three hours and a half to get the 154 runs they wanted, and before the end was reached they had some anxious moments, says the London Chronicle. Indeed, if Whitty, at mid-on, had taken an easy chance offered him by Warner when the batsman had scored 22 the match might very possibly have had a different result.

One point—and that a very important one—should be borne in mind in considering the significance of the result. The wicket, though, happily, not dangerous, as previous wickets at Lord's this season have been, was never easy. It would have satisfied the requirements of the cricketers of thirty or forty years ago, but it could not be trusted. The batsmen had always to be on the lookout for the ball that kept low. Such a wicket, as in this particular case, produces ideal cricket, with reasonable scores and the certainty of a definite finish; but it finds out the weak points of batsmen who have been to some extent spoiled by playing so constantly on wickets which give the bowlers no help whatever. The M. C. C. batsmen were, of course, familiar with the ground, whereas eight of the Australians were playing at Lord's for the first time.

At first things went so well for the M. C. C. that an easy victory seemed in prospect. Tarrant and Hulsh, who had opened the M. C. C.'s second innings over-ruled, carried the score from 7 to 52 before they were separated. They took nearly an hour to add 45 runs, but their batting was excellent.

A great disaster for the M. C. C. followed. Fry, after making two singles, being caught at the wicket with the total at 57. However, Tarrant and Warner played very steadily together, and despite several changes they had at lunch time carried the score to 100.

With eight wickets to fall and only 63 runs required the M. C. C. seemed to have the match in their hands, but there was some startling cricket to follow. When Whitty missed each batsman in turn the Australians might well have despair, but the bowlers persevered as if nothing had happened, and the game soon underwent a complete change.

Tarrant, after batting for fully two hours and a half, played on at 115 and the next three batsmen all failed. Fane was out leg before wicket. Foster caught at slip, and Gillingham, in trying to drive, was down for 125, 27 runs being still wanted. However, the tension was quickly relieved, three of two of them brilliant out by Warner and smaller hits taking the total to 133 before Thompson was bowled in trying to sweep a ball from O'Connor round to square leg.

The remaining 12 runs were soon obtained. Warner cut Armstrong for 4, and Relf, with a couple of off-drives to the boundary from O'Connor, won a great match for the M. C. C. by three wickets. So long as a chance of victory remained no bowlers could have tried harder than Armstrong and O'Connor.

The scores:

THE RING. FIGHT GOSSIP. San Francisco, Cal., June 11.—"Fighting" Dick Hyland thinks he was a trifle stale when he met Nelson, and the Grass Valley boy does not intend to cut loose as he did when he was in training across the bay. Hyland won't begin conditioning himself until Saturday, and then he will work out at Millet's.

Leach Cross will likely arrive to-day and Jimmy Coffroth will rush him into training quarters at Shannon's.

Packey McFarland is more than anxious once more to get the chance to box in San Francisco. He has asked Coffroth to give him a date for next month. Coffroth has under advisement a proposition to match Packy with the winner of the Cross-Hyland set-to.

Nelson has given the Sunshine Club permission to find an opponent for him for next month. The Dane is a very busy man in harness as he has also practically completed arrangements to fight Johnny Thompson in September.

Stanley Ketchell will soon shake the dust of the east from his feet and head this way. The Michigander has a pressing engagement on his hands for the fifth of next month. Willie Britt will let his man stop over in order to give an exhibition. The party is expected to arrive on the 15th.

Monte Attell and Frankie Neil are both down to the hard grind of putting themselves in shape for the 25-round go arranged to take place on the 15th at the Mission street arena.

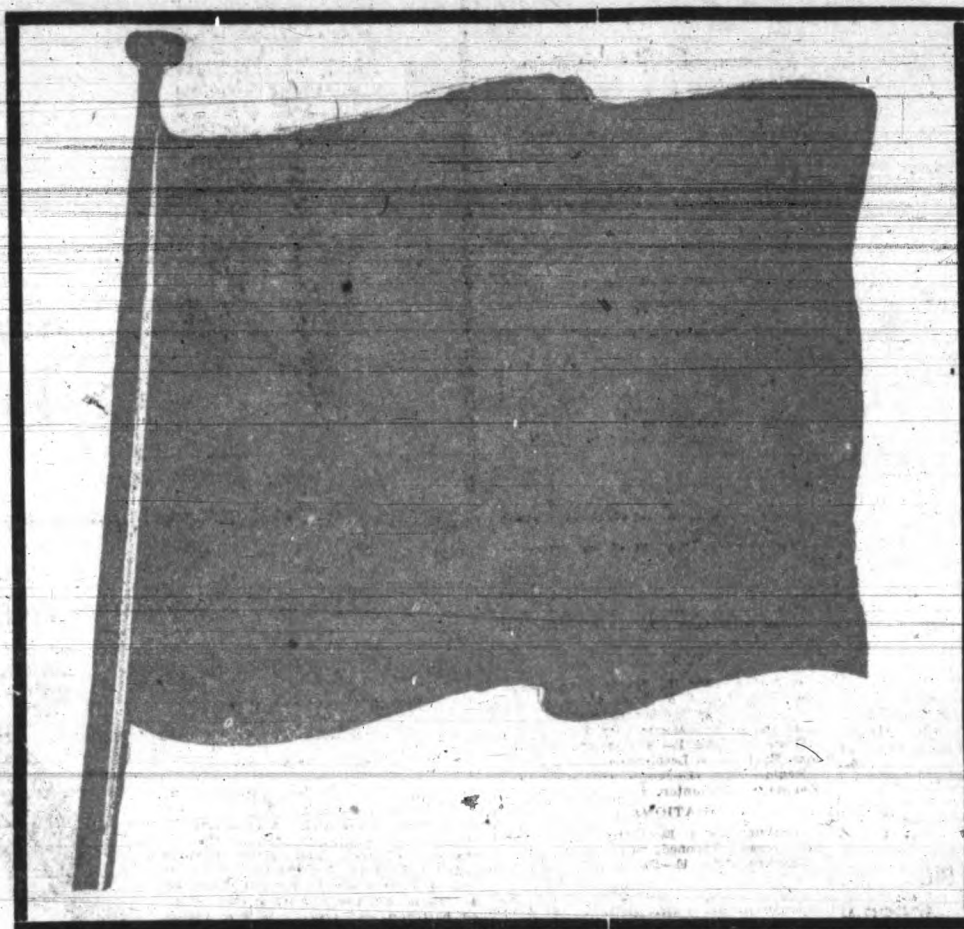

POPE'S COSTLY WARDROBE. The most costly wardrobe in the world belongs to the Pope. Etiquette compels him to wear different garments each day of the year, and most of them are ornamented with rare gems.

The Pope's little skull-caps are of the finest silk, while his embroidered slippers of velvet are gorgeous to behold. Still more costly are his gloves, made of white wool, embroidered with fine pearls in the shape of a cross. A special herd of fifty sheep is kept, from which all Papal woolen garments are manufactured.

The surplices are of the most valuable lace; while one long cape—the "cappa magna"—literally gleams from top to bottom with gold and precious stones.

DOLLAR FOR TRIP

ON DERBY DAY

C. P. R. Will Run Special Excursion on Saturday of Next Week.

While there has been some hitch in making arrangements for the running of an extra excursion steamer from Seattle to the city to-morrow, definite arrangements having not yet been completed, next week has been provided for. The shipping companies have been asking for a certain concession from the Country Club, which the latter have hesitated about making, and this has caused a delay. Still it is possible that either the Ramona or the Yosemite may make a trip over here to-morrow.

Saturday of next week is Derby day at the races, and for that occasion the C. P. R. will run a special excursion on one of the Princesses, charging $1 for the round trip. This, it is thought, will have the effect of bringing a large number of people to the city for the races, and others who simply wish to visit the city will be able to take advantage of the opportunity.

PUEBLA FROM SOUTH.

Early Potatoes and Vegetables Brought From California on Liner.

Steamer City of Puebla arrived from San Francisco last night about 2:30, bringing a quantity of freight and a few passengers for this city. The freight list included large quantities of early potatoes for the local market and early vegetables, fruit and general produce. There were also one or two consignments of hardware.

Among the passengers was R. P. Rithet, who is here on one of his periodical business visits. The other passengers landing here were: G. Edwards and wife, A. Young, Arthur Nash, Mrs. R. Nash, J. A. Scott, J. E. Anthony, D. W. Harris, G. A. Fox, R. Sherritt and wife, Mrs. J. D. Hargon.

FORTIFYING PORT.

Salina Cruz Being Made Impregnable to Foreign Forces of Mexico.

Steamer Ella, which arrived yesterday from Mexico, brought word that the work of preparing the fortifications of Salina Cruz is going forward rapidly. Everything will be ready for the installation of the big cannon which are being cast in Europe. It was expected that they would arrive at the port about the end of this year, but on account of the magnitude of the task it is possible that they may not be delivered for some time, possibly a year and six months from the present.

The fortifications of the port will cost an enormous sum, the cost of the cannon alone being calculated at several million pesos, but when the fortifications are complete the port of Salina Cruz will be impregnable. The department of war keeps in daily communication with the commission which has charge of the work, and although some of the facts about the fortifications have been published, it is said that complete secrecy regarding the details has been enjoined upon the officers.

EMPRESS REPORTED.

White Liner Should Arrive Here About Noon To-Morrow.

Steamer Empress of India was reported by the Dominion government wireless station at Estevan Point this morning at 10. At that time she was 170 miles distant. She reported that she would probably arrive here to-morrow at noon.

According to the schedule the steamer is due in Vancouver on Sunday, but she will probably be there to-morrow night. She will in all probability try to arrive here a short time before noon in order that her passengers may have an opportunity of going to the banks before they close.

Steamer Antiochus is here on Sunday.

SPRINGBANK LEAVING FOR VANCOUVER

Ship Will Load Part Cargo of Lumber for Sydney, Australia.

The statement made a week ago by the Times that the ship Springbank was to load lumber and general cargo at Vancouver has been confirmed by the agents of the company of Greer, Courtney & Skene. The Ellsland is now on her way to this port from Santa Rosalia in ballast. She had been chartered to take a cargo, but as she has not yet arrived and the Springbank is almost ready to load, the latter will be taken to Vancouver early next week to load a part cargo at Hastings mills and complete her cargo with general merchandise. This will be taken to Sydney, Australia.

The Springbank is at present discharging her ballast and Superintendent Baird of the Andrew Weir company arrived this afternoon from Seattle for the purpose of making final arrangements. Captain Baird is proceeding at once to Vancouver.

CHEAP RATES.

Excursion Return Tickets for Those Going to Seattle Fair on Victoria Day.

An excursion rate of $2.50 for the round trip to Seattle and return will be made by the International Steamship Co., on their steamer Iroquois for those wishing to attend the fair on Victoria Day, June 17th. Tickets may be purchased on Wednesday next and are good for return any time before Saturday. The C.P.R. has not yet announced any special rates for that occasion but doubtless they will make the same as tickets issued by either company are good on the boats of the other.

Steamer Georgia which is at present in drydock at Esquimalt having a new propeller blade affixed and general repairs made may miss a trip leaving on schedule time the last day of the month. This is not assured and repairs are being rushed in order that she may get away almost at once if necessary.

OWNERS MAINTAIN

UNION FREIGHT RATES

Windjammer Owners Combine Again to Keep Carrying Prices Up.

Combination rates for carrying grain from North Pacific ports to the United Kingdom will continue to be demanded by the members of the Sailing Ship Owners' International Union. This was decided at a meeting held at London last month by a committee representing the organization.

The international union was formed several years ago, following disastrous competition for business among owners of sailing ships. The members of this organization are largely British, but a few German and French ships are included. Under penalty of a heavy fine, the owners are not allowed to charter their ships for less than the minimum rate, which from Puget Sound and Portland is $15 per grain.

On account of the over supply of tonnage and the lack of wheat for export, the union suspended its rates until May 1st of this year. According to the report of A. H. Pollak, honorary secretary, the committee concluded that conditions are auspicious for enforcing combination freights. The secretary says:

"The committee was pleased to note that business has already been done from the North Pacific for new season's loading at rates in excess of the existing minimum rates of freight, and it was decided to maintain these as at present fixed. No change was made in the existing minimum rates or conditions. It was decided to hold the next meeting of the committee in Paris on November 11th."

Discussing the prospects for the fall export season, an English authority under recent date writes:

"If the crop from the North Pacific is not a very large one, disaster awaits the large fleet of sailing ships which already have been lying up for several months while steamers chartered outward with coal for the American admiralty will in all probability have to face a ballast trip to Java, Vladivostok or Australia."

Good news for shipowners comes from the west coast of South America, a correspondent writing:

"Supply and demand has asserted itself on the West Coast and raised in-rate freights to 21s without the intervention of the union."

If this remunerative rate continues from nitrate ports it is not likely that many sailing ships will come North in ballast to seek grain here during the fall and winter. For a long time nitrate freights have been seriously depressed.

Steamer Makura which left here yesterday on a three day excursion to the Seattle fair had affixed to her bridge an electrical decoration, advertising Vancouver.

Steamer Georgia is paying off a number of the Chinese firemen and other members of the crew which will be sent back to China on the steamer Montague when she calls here outward bound to-morrow night.

SPOKANE TO CALL HERE.

Excursionists Will Spend Several Hours in City Before Going North.

Early on Wednesday of next week the steamer Spokane of the Pacific Coast Steamship Co. carrying a large number of excursionists bound for Alaska will call here and the pleasure seekers will be given a few hours in which to see the sights. The steamer will leave north bound at 11 a.m. and will call at all the points of interest in Alaska. The famous Muir glacier and other points of interest will be visited. A number of passengers will probably join the steamer at this point.

The time used in Pacific Standard, for the 12th Meridian west. It is counted from 0 to 24 hours, from midnight to midnight. The figure for height serves to distinguish high water from low water. The height is in feet and tenths of a foot, above the average level of the lowest low water in each month of the year. This level is half a foot lower than the datum to which the sounding on the Admiralty chart of Victoria harbor are reduced.

Steamer Quadra was this afternoon delayed in leaving for the West Coast of Vancouver Island by an accident which, might easily have proved fatal. The four-year-old boy of M. McKay, strayed down to the wharf in company with M. C. Reynard, a mail clerk on the E. & N. Railway. The little lad somehow managed to slip into the water and came near drowning. Reynard pulled him out and took him to the steamer Quadra, which was in dock just ready to leave. Dr. Watt happened to be near and Dr. McMicking was also sent for, and between them they brought the lad to.

The high-class vaudeville show at Pantages this week, which includes such star artists as the McLaughlin Trio of sensational cyclists; Gladich and Blake, comedy players; the Australian Duo, juvenile singers and dancers; Cherlie Sanders, comedian; and an exceptionally pleasing illustrated song and motion picture on the biograph, is drawing big crowds to Johnson street.

Amber Pudding.—Take six large apples, three ounces of moist sugar, one lemon, two ounces of butter, three eggs, some puff paste and a few preserved cherries. Peel, core and slice the apples, place them in a stewpan, with butter, sugar and the yellow rind of a lemon and let them stew gently until tender. Then rub them through a fine sieve. Line the edges of a deep pie dish with the puff paste and decorate tastefully. Add the yolks of the eggs to the pie dish. Bake in a moderate oven about twenty minutes. Whip the whites of the eggs very stiff, and spread over the pudding and sprinkle with powdered sugar. Garnish with a few preserved cherries, then place the pudding in a cool oven to set the whites. It will not take longer than ten minutes to brown it delicately.

ENTERTAINMENT OF THE CITY'S VISITORS

Preparations Are Well in Hand to Give Lady Delegates a Good Time.

Elaborate preparations are being made by the reception committee for the entertainment of the delegates from the International Congress in Toronto, who have signified their intention of coming to Victoria on the evening of July 12th, to remain until the following afternoon, when they will leave for Seattle.

The event promises to be one of unusual importance owing to the number of distinguished British and foreign delegates who are to visit Victoria for the first time. Between twenty and thirty of the hundred women whom we may expect, are from Germany, Holland, Sweden and Belgium, and occupy a prominent position in the university and public life of those countries.

Mrs. Dunsmuir has graciously intimated her intention of entertaining the visiting delegates at Government House on the evening of their arrival, and the Local Council proposes to provide motors and launches for the visitors on the morning of the 13th, to enable them to see something of the environs of Victoria under the most pleasant conditions. A luncheon will be tendered them at 12.30 a.m., at which the most distinguished of the delegates will be asked to reply to toasts proposed by some of the leading men of Victoria.

Great efforts are being made by the residents of the various cities in the east through which the party will pass, to entertain the delegates in a manner worthy of the occasion, and it is extremely desirable that their final impressions of Canadian hospitality should be no less memorable than those received on their progress through the other cities of the Dominion.

QUIET WEDDING.
Mr. Thomas H. Noek and Miss Coverdale Married at St. Barnabas.

The marriage of Mr. Thomas H. Noek, late of Ipswich, Suffolk, Eng., now connected with the B. C. Electric Company, and Miss Gertrude Maud Coverdale, only daughter of the late George Coverdale, of Sault Ste. Marie, Ont., was quietly solemnized yesterday afternoon in St. Barnabas' church by Rev. E. G. Miller.

The bride, who was given away by her brother, Mr. John Coverdale, wore a handsome princess gown of white Swiss muslin, and carried a shower bouquet of bridal roses and lilies of the valley. She was attended by her cousin, Miss Gwendolyn, in a pretty bridesmaid's frock. Mr. J. Gill supported the groom. The honeymoon will be spent in Saanich.

PLEASANT DAY ON LAWNS AT LEASOWES

Many Guests Were Entertained by Mesdames Todd and Gillespie.

The beautiful lawns and shrubberies of "The Leasowes," with their wealth of broom and wild roses, which alone would have made them picturesquely beautiful without the aid of cultivated flowers and shrubs, never appeared to greater advantage than yesterday afternoon, when Mrs. J. H. Todd and her daughter, Mrs. Hadden Gillespie, entertained their friends to the number of about three hundred.

The guests were received in the drawing room, which with the handsome reception hall, was decorated with quantities of broom. In the dining room, where tea was served, white peonies and laburnum were used most artistically. Tees were served on the broad veranda, and on the lawn, where the guests wandered about in merry laughing groups, or played croquet, lawn tennis and other garden games. Mrs. Thain's orchestra played in the reception hall throughout the afternoon.

Mrs. Todd was very richly gowned in silver grey brocade with bonnet en suite. Mrs. Hadden Gillespie in a becoming green silk organdie flowered with pink, made in semi-princess style. With this she wore a large white lace hat with pink roses. Mrs. Charles Todd, who assisted in receiving, appeared to good advantage in a handsome black satin, with large black picture hat. Mrs. Munson, of Seattle, Mrs. Todd's niece, wore a lovely white silk in semi-princess style with white hat.

Mrs. Dunsmuir wore grey voile with becoming black picture hat; Mrs. Alexander Gillespie, a white embroidered linen with black hat; Mrs. Gillespie, a mauve princess with black hat; Miss Butchart, a smart reseau green satin; Mrs. Hermann Robertson, a very striking old rose satin with hat en suite.

SIXTEEN BRIDES.

Sixteen Anxious Swains Greeted Them When the Steamer Corsica Arrived at Montreal.

When the Allan liner Corsica slipped alongside her berth at Montreal, sixteen anxious young men rushed up the gangway to the first class deck, where sixteen blushing young brides-to-be were waiting to be greeted in the orthodox loving fashion, says the Montreal Star.

The first of the weddings took place before three days had passed, in All Saints' church, when—Leonard G. Jackson and George E. Chapman, both of Montreal, took to their bosoms, Miss Frances May Alderice and Miss Florence Swindin, respectively, both Nottingham girls.

The other fourteen weddings will take place in a short time. A cargo of sixteen brides-elect, and remarkably pretty ones at that, is without precedent in St. Lawrence shipping annals, and the thousands of bills of lading for years back show no consignment, which attracted so much attention.

The young ladies are from various parts of England, and when their affianced husbands in Canada wrote that the home was built, and everything was prepared for a happy existence, they packed their sixteen trunks, and booked by the Corsican.

It is a remarkable coincidence that the girls knew nothing of each other until they met around the dining saloon tables, when, under the excellent influence of shipboard food, each whispered her dear little secret. The coincidence struck them as so peculiar that during the whole voyage they actively forgot the rest of the passengers in the interesting task of arranging visits when the ceremonies were over in Canada.

The young ladies met their future husbands in England, and arranged to take the first steamer out when the letter came that all was ready.

NEW GRAND THEATRE.
High Class Entertainment Draws Immense Crowds Each Performance.

A bill, the very best and full of every kind of variety is the offering Manager Robert Jamieson has at the New Grand theatre this week for the local lovers of polite and refined vaudeville. The headline taken from the point of public appreciation, is the act of Seymour and Hill, which elicits the bill in a furor of laughter and applause. The turn of the willing pair is immense and never fails at any performance. Seymour is a comedy acrobat of the best kind, and there is just enough talk thrown into the turn to make it all the way a winner.

Leo Cooper and Pasqualina De Voe present "The Price of Power," a drama with a moral, in a manner that compares with the best artists in the profession. His partner is nothing behind him in the interpretation of her part. "The Artist's Dream" is a turn which supports the bill well. It is novel and is accompanied by a unique stage setting, the electrical effects of which are specially worth mention. The posing of Miss Blais is good.

Margaret Deville in mental telepathy and psychic phenomena offers something very out of the rut in vaudeville. It is a performance that is seldom seen on any stage and would be a big draw in all cities. Thomas J. Price's song, accompanied by motion pictures and the impersonations of Slater Brockman, are the other turns which with the moving pictures, are drawing capacity houses at the Grand.

During their recent stay in Toronto their Excellencies the Governor-General and Countess Grey gave a most successful garden party at Fallingbrook, the residence of Mr. D. D. Mann. The guests, who numbered about 400, were received on the lawn by their Excellencies. Countess Grey wore a gown of American beauty chiffon trimmed with lace and embroidery, and a large black hat with plumes. Lady Sybil Grey was in pink crepe de chine and a burnt straw hat. Lady Evelyn Grey wore a white gown with embroidered green silk bretteau and a hat trimmed with roses.

Anty Drudge Saves Valuable Lace.

Mrs. Housewife—"Here I've boiled and rubbed this lace and the coffee stains are in it yet. I'm simply afraid to do a thing more to it. It looks weak already. I guess it's a goner."

Anty Drudge—"Not if you will take my advice. But you've certainly given it a cooking. Take that boiler off the range, fill it with cool water, rub the lace with Fels-Naptha and soak it a short time. Then rub it lightly and rinse it. The stains will all be gone and the lace'll look as good as new."

"Boil until tender" is what all the cook books say.

Boiling makes most anything tender, even hard wood.

And that's precisely what boiling does to your clothes.

Makes the fibre tender. Then you wonder why your clothes tear so easily and wear into holes so soon.

How else will you get your clothes clean?

Fels-Naptha dissolves and loosens the dirt in cool or lukewarm water, without hard rubbing.

No hot water, no boiling, in summer or winter.

It's such an easy way of washing; makes the clothes cleaner, whiter and purer and they wear twice as long.

Be sure to get the genuine Fels-Naptha and follow directions on the red and green wrapper.

PORTLAND STREET LAID WITH HASSAM.

Hassam pavement as a method of treating streets is receiving considerable attention in Victoria at present. W. A. Ward, who represents this particular method of treating roads, is in the city, bringing with him samples of the pavement which are on exhibition in the office of Greer, Courtenay & Skene. The above is a view of the Clackamas street, from Fifteenth to

Eighteenth street in Portland, Ore., laid with this style of pavement. Mr. Ward says the pavement should not cost more than $1.50 a yard for residential streets. The process involved in the work is not a very complicated one and it is urged for it that there is little or no danger that the proper mixture will not be applied. The process in brief is as follows:

The road is graded and the soil removed. The roadbed is then rolled with a very heavy tandem steam roller. A layer of 6 inches to 8 inches deep of 1½ inch to 2 inch crushed rock (trap or granite) is then spread over the roadbed, and if there are any soft places these are reinforced. The heavy steam tandem roller then rolls this crushed rock. When the rolling is completed a Hassam grout mixer is brought into use and a liquid solution of two parts of sand to one of cement is poured over the rock and rolled with the heavy tandem roller until all the voids are filled and the grout flushes to the surface, the rolling continuing while a layer of pea stone is sprinkled over it which is further rolled and gives a gritty surface.

RAILWAY AFFAIRS AND BOARD OF TRADE

Decision Arrived at to Have a Committee Appointed.

The president of the board of trade was yesterday afternoon empowered by special resolution to appoint a committee on railway affairs which would always be ready to take up railway matters and would watch the progress of events in the interest of the city of Victoria and Vancouver Island. This effected very little discussion but the board seemed agreed as to the advisability of appointing the committee.

President Leiser said they had been informed that the provincial government was adopting a railway policy and they had put the matter on the agenda to keep it before the people.

C. H. Lugin said he did not intend to make a speech but he would move the following resolution:

"That a committee be appointed to take into consideration all matters relating to projected railway construction as far as the same may bear upon the welfare of the city of Victoria and Vancouver Island generally, and to report to this board or the council thereof from time to time."

Speaking to the resolution Mr. Lugin said everyone knew that the Canadian Northern and G. T. P. were racing to get ahead of each other in the Thompson river valley. While there was no objection to this he said that there was little reference made to Victoria or Vancouver Island. For this reason he thought a standing committee would be useful.

F. Pauline in seconding the resolution said he thought a railway committee might be very useful. It might be part of their duties to watch railway legislation at the next session of the House.

Mr. Munn thought the matter should be well discussed. The matter of railway construction was very important. A number of small railways were being constructed to carry logs to tidewater from which points they were towed to Vancouver to be manufactured. If these small roads went on increasing there would be little reason for building railways when the island had been "skinned." Little had been done here in the past twenty-five years and he did not propose to keep quiet during the next quarter of a century.

The resolution was then put and carried.

GENERAL TAKES THE PLEDGE.

General Sir Ian Hamilton announced his intention recently of signing the pledge.

The gallant general took this step at the annual meeting of the Royal Army Temperance Association, held at Caxton hall, London, at which he presided, and Lord Roberts distributed the awards.

Sir Ian Hamilton said he did not stand before them as an apostle holding in his hand a shining light to guide their erring footsteps, but as a penitent. When he reflected that in his 57 years' service some 10,000 quarts of dutiable liquor had passed down the throat of him whom they had asked to be their chairman, his conscience pricked him.

It was one of the characteristics of the British army that the officers did not say to their men: "Go on," but "Come on." He would be happy to put himself in the position to do so by taking the pledge. He would take it for one year.

He would be uncomfortable, he knew he would. (Laughter.) When he went abroad it would be incredibly difficult to explain to his German or Russian comrades in arms that he had taken an oath which prevented him drinking toasts. But he had weighed the cost, and was prepared to pay the price.

G. H. BARNARD ON HIS RECORD IN HOUSE

He Addressed Board of Trade at Monthly Meeting.

At the regular monthly meeting of the board of trade yesterday afternoon President Simon Leiser mentioned the fact that H. Barnard, M. P., was with them again, and suggested that if anyone had any questions to ask him they should do so now. No one wishing to know anything particularly, the member made a speech in which he referred to the question of obtaining aid for a new drydock. On inquiry at Ottawa he was told that the government would only grant aid under the general subsidy act. He had communicated this decision to the board.

In regard to the Indian reserve he had not yet seen all the correspondence. He had been given to understand that an act had been prepared which would compel the Indians to move. Later he found that it was not the intention to legislate along those lines at present.

He understood now that if they could arrange with the provincial government in regard to the reversion, the Dominion government would take it up once more. The matter was at present where it was about 1888.

The abolition of compulsory pilotage had also been taken up by him. Mr. Barnard said he was unable, however, to get hold of the report of Commissioner Spain. Several communications from the Inner Harbor Association had been received. He had consulted with Mr. Eulen and Captain Troup when they visited Ottawa, and had taken the matter up on several occasions with the ministers but without avail as the appropriations this year had been cut down.

The fisheries protection had also been taken up by him, but he found that the government was already taking up the matter of providing a cruiser. He did not think British Columbia was getting a fair deal because the only vessels they had were the Keenel and the Quadra. The reason given for not constructing the steamer earlier was that the minister was anxious to have the boat built in Canada. He did not agree with his course, as a good deal of hull was being sacrificed to illicit fishermen.

Mr. Barnard said he found the city had made very good progress since he left several months ago. In conclusion Mr. Barnard said he was sure there was going to be much travel to this province during the present summer, and he was glad to be once more in Victoria.

DIVERS' WEIRD FIND.

Discovers Skeletons at the Bottom of the Bosphorus.

The Liverpool Journal of Commerce states that it has received a letter from an officer on one of the Sault Line steamers referring to the discovery of the skeleton of a Turk, in which that officer makes the following startling statement:

While at Constantinople on April 20th two divers went down in the Bosphorus for some purpose, and they reported that the bottom was covered with skeletons. One of the divers died from the effects of going down, and the other went mad. A yacht anchored in this place a little while ago, and when the crew were up the anchor there were two dead bodies hooked on it shackled together.

APPOINTMENTS MADE BY THE GOVERNMENT

George Thomson of Victoria Made Agent at Nanaimo.

This week's Provincial Gazette contains notice of the appointment of George Thomson, of this city, as government agent at Nanaimo. Mr. Thomson has had a long experience in the civil service. While a government agent existed at Ladysmith, he filled the office, coming from there to the assessor's office in the parliament buildings in this city. The illness of Marshall Bray, government agent at Nanaimo, has necessitated his retirement, and Mr. Thomson, who is well acquainted with the work, has been appointed to the office. He has for several months been filling the office. In addition to being government agent he will fill the following offices there: Gold commissioner for the Nanaimo mining division; assistant commissioner of lands and works; registrar under the "Marriage Act," deputy district registrar of births, deaths and marriages; registrar of voters for the Nanaimo city electoral district; clerk of the peace for the County of Nanaimo; recording officer for the Nanaimo castle district; and receiver of fees for application to register under the "Land Registry Act." The appointment dates from the 1st day of June, 1909.

Other appointments are as follows: John C. Linn, of Atlin, to be mining recorder; district registrar of births, deaths and marriages, and registrar for the purposes of the "Marriage Act" for the Atlin Lake mining division; registrar of voters for the Atlin electoral district; clerk of the peace for the county of Atlin, and collector of revenue tax for the Atlin assessment district.

Hugh Hunter, of Princeton, mining recorder, to be gold commissioner for the Similkameen mining division, in the place of G. C. Trunfall.

George Thomson, of Nanaimo, to be official administrator for the county of Nanaimo, in the place of Marshall Bray, resigned.

David Brownlee Laxler, M. D., C. M., to be resident physician at Princeton, and medical health officer for the Similkameen district, in the place of J. Edward Schon, M. R. C. S. England, resigned.

To be notaries public for the province of British Columbia:

Philip Collamer Young and John G. Allan, of the city of Vancouver.

Charles George Gray, of the city of Vernon.

George Talbot Devereux, of the city of Victoria.

William Blair Robertson, of the city of Revelstoke, and William Edward Williams, of Prince Rupert, barristers-at-law.

Alfred C. Nelson, to be acting government agent at Cranbrook; acting commissioner of lands and works, acting water commissioner; acting registrar under the "Marriage Act," acting registrar of births, deaths and marriages for the southern division of East Kootenay; acting gold commissioner for the Fort Steele mining division, and acting registrar of voters for the Cranbrook electoral district, from the 14th day of June to the 25th day of June, 1909, during the absence on leave of J. F. Armstrong, government agent.

To be medical health officers: Benjamin Butler Marr, M. D., for the district of Corbin; Harvey Anson Christie, M. B., for the district of Lillooet; and James Norman Taylor, M. D., C. M., for the district of Golden.

Howard A. Turner, assessor and collector, to be acting government agent at Fairview; acting gold commissioner for the Osoyoos mining division; acting assistant commissioner of lands and works for the Similkameen division of Yale district; acting registrar under the "Marriage Act," acting registrar of the County court of Yale; acting registrar of voters for the Similkameen electoral district; acting recording officer under the "Cattle Act," and acting water commissioner for the Similkameen water district, for a period of three weeks from the 12th day of June, 1909, during the absence on leave of James R. Brown, government agent.

To be deputy game wardens:

R. O. Jennings, Prince Rupert.

E. Seabach, Giesbeke Portage, Cariboo.

J. F. Brady, Quesnel.

Harry Anderson, Trail.

James M. Farrell, Slooan City.

Chas. A. Mac, Grand Forks.

NARROW ESCAPE FROM DEATH.

San Francisco, Cal., June 11.—Sixty deputies of the city registration bureau were near death yesterday when the boom of a derrick used in demolishing the walls of the old city hall fell crashing through the skylight of the east wing of the building, where the registration department is located. W. W. Bousman and James Bowler were severely cut by flying glass and were removed to a hospital.

PIGMIES OF THE CONGO.

Tiny People of the Ituri Forest Give Hunter Warm Welcome.

Colonel J. J. Harrison has reached England on the conclusion of a six months' expedition to the Congo and Ituri forest, the principal objects of which were hunting and collecting. Travelling by way of Mombasa and the Uganda railway, Colonel Harrison finally collected his caravan of sixty porters at Entebbe, the capital of Uganda.

From that place he started on a long march of 200 miles to Toro, whence he crossed into Belgian territory. He was greatly struck by the progress that is being made in Uganda, where the governor is constructing some very fine motor roads. One road, 110 miles long, has been completed, and on this runs a regular weekly service of passenger and baggage motors. The natives in the vicinity of the Congo boundary were very hostile. Those people—the Walend—off the tribes with whom the recent boundary commission had considerable trouble. When Colonel Harrison entered their country he found that they had deserted their villages and had all retired to the hills. Every rock and eminence was lined by these people, who were fully armed, and to the number of some thousands, squatted like rows of monkeys on the hillside watching the white man's party.

Every effort was made to get into touch with them, and it was only by leaving heaps of salt and presents in the middle of the deserted villages that the natives, finding these gifts as they suspiciously tracked the explorers, became convinced of the friendliness of the strangers, and eventually abandoned their hostile attitude. At one part of the Ituri forest the news had reached the pigmies that the white man who had taken some of their friends to England was coming, and a cordial reception was given to him by a great gathering of dwarfs who had assembled in a beautiful glade. Continuous rain and tropical storms, combined with the high elephant grass, made progress very difficult and hunting more than usually hazardous. A one point a herd of 300 elephants was seen. After leaving the forest Colonel Harrison worked right round Ruwenzori back to Toro and on to Entebbe. He got some very fine elephants, with tusks weighing over 100 pounds.

Alexander the Great is said to have used a speaking-trumpet.

DREDGING.—Two leases of five miles each of a river into Lake Superior, or of a river into the Gulf of St. Lawrence, or of a river into the Gulf of Boothia, and Narvik, on the Atlantic. To meet the present largely increased demands upon it and enable the management to run heavier trains at higher speeds, the Krima-Riksgransen section, especially, must be either reconstructed with double tracks or electrified, and of these alternatives the second seems from every point of view the wiser and more economical.

The adoption of electric traction on this line, far above the Arctic circle and the most northern railway in the world, will be an event of considerable importance in the history of electricity, and cannot fail to stimulate in marked degree the demand for similar action in respect of other Swedish railways. Nor will it be without value as a practical illustration of the unbounded potentialities of Sweden's wealth of waterfalls, not limited to a few specially favored regions, but at hand and only awaiting development to benefit every province.—John George Leigh in Cassier's Magazine.

ALLEGED EMBEZZLER TAKEN INTO CUSTODY

Former Bank Cashier and Insurance Agent Wanted in Alabama.

Seattle, Wash., June 11.—N. C. Alston, wanted on an embezzlement charge, was arrested in this city yesterday, pending the arrival of an officer from Alabama. The local police do not know the details of the charges against the prisoner. Alston was formerly cashier of the Bank of Stevenson, Alabama, and later acted as Birmingham agent of the Prudential Life Insurance Company. He admits that while he was cashier of the bank there was a shortage of between $5,000 and $7,000, but claims that the trouble was adjusted by his uncle, who paid over to the institution $5,000. Whether he is wanted in connection with this matter or because of some action on the part of the insurance company, Alston professes not to know.

SEEKS SEPARATION.

Hearing of Suit Brought by Mrs. C. C. Gould Against Her Husband.

New York, June 11.—Technical arguments occupied the most part of the afternoon of yesterday in the case of Catherine Clemon Gould's suit for separation from her husband, Howard Gould, which was begun yesterday before Supreme Court Justice Dowling.

Attorney Nicol, representing Gould, moved to dismiss certain parts of Mrs. Gould's complaint on the ground that they did not comply with the statutes and proceeded to make a lengthy technical argument in support of his contention.

Mrs. Gould simply asks for a separation, alleging cruelty and abandonment, but Gould has started a counter suit, naming Dustin Farnum, the actor, and Col. Wm. Cody (Buffalo Bill) as co-respondents.

Since the proceedings were begun, two years ago, Mrs. Gould has been receiving alimony at the rate of $25,000 a year.

Nicol's motion was overruled and Attorney Shearn outlined Mrs. Gould's case. He declared it was simply an act for maintenance and separation despite the notoriety that had been given it. Shearn said that his client did not believe in divorce and refused an offer from her husband, who promised to furnish her with evidence which would assure her a decree under the laws of New York.

WILL AEROPLANE PUT AN END TO WARFARE?

W. T. Stead Says the Future Belongs to Flying Machines.

It is probable that the trade of the armorer was never more brisk than in the decade immediately before the use of gunpowder rendered armor a cumbersome and useless impediment to fighting efficiency, writes W. T. Stead in the London Daily Mail. The artificers of bows and arrows probably looked down with supreme contempt upon those who warned them that the battles of the future would be decided not by the gray goose shaft but by the villainous saltpetre. Nevertheless, coats of armor must now be sought for in museums, and the long bow and the cross bow alike survive only as the toys of the school boy.

It does not require much prescience to foresee that armaments will soon go the way of armor, and that twelve-inch guns will soon be as obsolete as the six foot bow. The coming of the aeroplane will revolutionize everything. So long as the decisive element in international combat is naval armament we must maintain our "nearer three than two to one" supremacy at sea over the next strongest European power. That was the inheritance of the present ministry, and we may trust to Mr. Winston Churchill and his colleagues to see that it is handed on unimpaired to their successors. But the most ardent advocates of the two-knots-to-one standard need not hesitate to recognize the fact that this is but the last spurt of a struggle the final issue of which will be decided not on the water but in the air. So long as the competition is kept up we must hold our leading position. But the future belongs not to Dreadnoughts but to aeroplanes.

Austria, it is said, is about to launch out into a huge expenditure on Dreadnoughts. The King of Italy showed a keener insight into the probabilities of the future when he said two years ago: "Why should we spend two millions on a huge ironclad when there is every reason to believe an aeroplane costing no more than a motor-car may reduce it to old iron before it leaves the stocks?" I still have a lively sense of the emphasis with which M. d'Arenthral assured me on the event of the late Hague Conference that peace apostles could not be more profitably employed than in urging the parliaments of the world to make grants for the building of airships, for when the airship comes frontiers, fortresses, fleets—everything goes. The German minister for foreign affairs told me in 1907 that they never for a moment allowed themselves to lose sight of the airship. Because when that comes it will revolutionize everything. The airship has come, and come to stay. The deliberate judgment of the Italian military aeronauts in 1912 there will be as many aeroplanes in the air as there are now motor-cars in the streets bids fair to be an accomplished fact. I have been repeating these things for the last five years. Everyone is beginning to admit that there may after all, be something in it. We have at last an official inquiry promised by the government, and it is possible we may actually have an airship of our own six months after Count Zeppelin's aerial service is established in Germany.

It is admitted that there may be after all "something in it." But what that something is few persons save imaginative speculators like Mr. H. G. Wells have been even dimly begun to perceive. What the airship carries beneath its planes is the most far-reaching revolution that has ever transformed the world. That revolution may be beneficial beyond the hopes of the greatest Utopians or it may be malevolent beyond the fears of the worst pessimist. The aeroplane may be called the advent-courier of the international world-state or the herald of the ruin of civilization. "Be my brother or I will slay thee," the French Revolutionist's formula, will now be revived with an infinitely wider application; because the airship represents an addition to the forces of destruction so vast, so incalculable that it places human society at the mercy of any of its component parts. The aeroplane dashing through the air at 100 miles an hour, capable of dropping 100-lb. of high explosives or of asphyxiating shells on any point from any height is the nearest approximation which mankind has made to the discovery of Vril. It was by the invention of Vril—that potent compound of electricity and dynamite, by which a child could destroy an army by waving a wand—that Lord Lytton prophesied ultimate extinction of war. The aeroplane is the next step to Vril. For it places limitless forces of destruction at the disposal of anyone who can raise £10,000 and find half a dozen desperadoes to do their bidding.

Captain T. G. Tulloch's articles on this subject in the Nineteenth Century has suffered the fate of other articles in the magazine in being submerged by the debates of the budget. Speaking of the devastation that could be wrought in the heart of the Empire by "a party of fearless, resolute men with the help of one airship and one machine," he describes the wealth of the Thames Valley from Hammer Smith to Gravesend, and declares:

"This whole fifty miles of concentrated essence of Empire lies at the mercy of even a single airship or aerial machine which could plant a dozen incendiary missiles in certain pre-selected spots, but I would guarantee that, given a certain wind and certain incendiary missiles, I could undertake to have the whole riverside, including ships, wharves, warehouses and the arsenal, in a blaze in a very short time."

He adds: "I have no hesitation in stating that it would be quite possible by secondary means to render both the navy and army powerless in a very short space of time with half a dozen airships acting under a certain plan. I am not romancing, and I make the above statement in all seriousness."

What this means is that the human race which has hitherto organized for defence from enemies on or below the world's surface is absolutely unprotected from attack from above. The opportunity which this gives to the anarchist and the desperado was perceived years ago by M. Azeff, when he recommended the Russian Revolutionists to resort to the aeroplane as the most effective means of destroying the government. If the governments do not cease their absolutely fatuous habit of preparing for war with each other they may find themselves confronted by forces of disorder armed with new and invincible weapons, against which they themselves will be powerless. In sheer self-defence the instinct of self-preservation ought to compel governments to federate into one international world-state, with international tribunals, interpreting the laws of an international parliament, whose decisions would be enforced by an executive without whose command appeal to force on earth, or air, or sea would be absolutely forbidden.

This may read like Utopia, but it is the only alternative to the destruction of civilization. If we refuse to recognize that the aeroplane will soon render war impossible, human society may find itself hurled with hideous ruin and combustion down to bottomless perdition like Lucifer and his hosts in "Paradise Lost." The minds of men, especially the ruling men, are slow to perceive the signs of the times. But the aeroplane, which renders armaments obsolete, will probably open their eyes to its significance, by abolishing frontiers. The smugglers of the air will have everything their own way. It will be impossible to enforce the payment of customs duties

QUEEN OF THE MOUNTAINEERS.

Lady's Lone Climb of Over 21,000 Feet in Himalayas.

There is in Paris just now a woman who has performed a mountaineering feat that has never been equalled. She is Mrs. Bullock Workman, wife of Dr. Hunter Workman. Mr. and Mrs. Workman have just returned from a mountaineering expedition on the borders of Turkistan, during which the lady climbed, unaided and alone, a peak in the Pamirs, which lifts its snow-clad head 21,350 feet towards the skies.

The ascent of this peak, which is capped by a mass of treacherous overhanging snow, has never before been attempted. During the expedition Mrs. Workman and her husband had several perilous experiences, and met the wildest tribe they have yet encountered. Mrs. Workman's latest feat adds still another to the already large number of conquests which she and her husband have achieved in the Himalayas. No other lady mountaineer has equalled her exploits, nor, except her husband, has any man ascended to like heights. The greatest altitude to which Mrs. Workman and wife have ascended is 23,284 feet, when they reached the summit of the Nun Kora Peak.

During this climb the camp of the party was pitched for two nights at an altitude of 21,000 feet. Other great climbs accomplished by the Queen of Mountaineers, as she has been called, were the Seigfried, 18,750 feet high, the first record-climb; Mount Bullock, 19,500 feet, the Koserung, 21,000 feet, and Mount Blugma, 22,500 feet. Mrs. Workman has been associated with her husband in all his adventurous travels amid the Himalayan mountain crests, and they have collaborated in describing their adventures.

CONSUMPTION DYING OUT.

Consumption will probably be unknown in England in fifty years' time, the South-west, London, corner was told by a pathologist from Guy's hospital. Hundreds of cases occurred where the disease was cured because it had been taken in its early stages. There was now no necessity for a patient to go abroad.

Since 1883 the sea has washed away 419 acres of the British Isles, but it has also added 30,752. The land gained, however, is present useless.

To-day's News To-day!

ON APRIL 1st the Times installed its own leased wire connecting with the mainland wire of the United Press Association and taking the full report of that famous news gathering association. While involving very heavy expense, it has already been more than justified by the excellence of the service provided.

THE TIMES operator begins receiving messages at 7.30 each morning and from that hour until 3.30 daily a steady stream of dispatches are delivered in the Times editorial rooms. The comprehensiveness of the service enables the telegraph editor to make a judicious selection, rejecting that which is unimportant or uninteresting in this part of the world.

Verdict of Suicide Returned in Case of Thomas Mastell.

A coroner's jury yesterday returned a verdict of suicide in the case of Thomas Mastell, whose body was found Wednesday in Betchen Hill park. A bottle which had contained carbolic acid was found by the side of the deceased. Evidence was given by a druggist's clerk of the purchase of the poison Tuesday morning, and R. Henderson told the jury deceased had asked him to obtain morphine for him. He had refused.

Deceased had been employed until recently by F. L. Smith, proprietor of the Light House, saloon. He, however, a month ago commenced drinking and

COMMAND OF SEA BRITAIN'S LIFE DOMINIONS' BEST HELP IS THEIR OWN DEFENCE

Lord Beresford Thinks Time Has Arrived to Dispense With Word Colonies.

At the Australian dinner, in London on May 21st, Lord Charles Beresford delivered a striking and important speech, of which a brief cable summary was published in the Times next day. The London papers contain a fuller report of the Admiral's speech, that from the Daily News being as follows:

"I commenced by stating that it would be very wise to get representatives from the different Dominions to come over here and discuss the naval question from their point of view. The question of Imperial defence was certainly in the minds of the Dominions, because they had come forward and had shown us over here that we were getting a bit sleepy. We were not looking facts in the face. The Dominions had offered to send a certain sum of money home for Dreadnoughts. Therefore the lead had been taken by the Dominions, which were going to impress on Great Britain and Ireland that the necessity of an adequate fleet for defence was of paramount importance. (Cheers.)

"Well, now," he went on, "the first object in this question of Imperial defence is, in my mind, to sit down and think how best we can help each other. (Cheers.) My view is this—that all the great Dominions could best help us by making proposals for defending themselves. A battleship by itself is not of very much use. Imagine there was a war, imagine that the Dominions' battleships were in these waters, and that the danger that will occur to the Dominions does occur—that is, the question of their trade routes being cut. I do not think it would add to the sympathy of those Dominions if, after having paid this large sum of money, the money was defending the shores of this country. That might provoke recriminations and disappointment. The idea of having torpedo-boats and submarines in the Dominions would not carry out the object, for, of course, in these days when we go to war it is most unlikely that the cruiser of a foreign country would go to the Dominions and operate by going into a harbor and blowing down a town. If a cruiser did go out with the idea of threatening the Dominions it would go at the trade routes."

"The only way the Dominions, in my opinion, can effect the purpose we desire is by protecting their own trade routes. Have we ever in our lives adopted a policy of defence? Never. We have always adopted a policy of attack, and that is the policy we should always adopt. (Cheers.)

The Dominions were well able to build ships. They could begin with a nucleus of a fleet. After all, there were fifteen million white men in these Dominions. The first essential would be that these vessels should be under the administration and the domination and control of the Dominions themselves; that in war they would join the great Imperial fleet; that the cruisers—say two from Sydney, two from Melbourne, and one from Adelaide—should go occasionally with the Mediterranean fleet, and that we should send a cruiser from the Mediterranean fleet to take the place of that cruiser for a month or two while it was away.

"I would say, Lord Charles continued, 'that an Imperial organization such as that for war means a real Imperial organization to insure peace. What is our greatest interest? Why, peace. If you are strong and efficient, and you get value for the money you have paid, and your fleets and armies are properly organized, you will have no war and nobody will attack you.' (Cheers.)

"If you are always ready, you will never be attacked. Tons, guns, and money are the last resort of the politician. You will have no difficulty in getting men. We have arrived at the time when we might dispense with the word colonies. We ought to regard the colonies as nations cemented together for defence. We could then laugh at the rest of the world. We do not want alliances, we want to be as we were securing our defence and working together as one great whole under this Imperial naval plan."

"A curious circumstance has occurred within the last few years," Lord Charles went on. "There has been an insane craze for armaments, not on our part, but on the part of other nations. If nations embark on armaments that are over and above and superfluous to what is necessary for their insurance and protection, that is an insane craze for armaments. I am afraid I shall be hauled over the coals for this, but that won't be the first time. I am afraid that this country has led the way, not in the insane craze for armaments, but what I may describe as the Dreadnought theory. When we started the Dreadnought theory this country was a four-power standard, because of the elimination of Russia."

"I do not object to the Dreadnoughts at all. What I object to is the advertisement connected with the ship. We told other nations, particularly a neighboring nation, that the ship would sink the whole of their fleet. That was a stupid sentence. What was the result? That nation set to work and made a definite programme, which was started in 1900. We made this insane remark and ran ourselves into this enormous expenditure of money. We have, as I may put it, deferred our obligations and our necessities, with the inevitable result that we shall have to pay a great deal more than if we had built as we should. Other nations are all going in for Dreadnoughts."

"The command of the sea is our life, and we have got to go on building. We have to spend some fifty millions, I believe, more than we need have spent through the insane advertisement of the Dreadnought which offended other nations, and made them build up to us. I am sure I shall hear of this again. 'If this goes on as they are doing now, in the near future it will be absolutely impossible for this country to maintain what is called the two-power standard. It will mean the question of bankruptcy or defeat. But, the two-power standard will be very easily kept up if we have an Imperial navy.' (Cheers.)

Lord Charles said he was not going into the naval controversy, but certain energetic gentlemen connected with the press had put into his mouth words that he never thought about. Having done that they held him up to some contempt, and made out that he was not in sympathy with Dreadnoughts."

"All I can say is this: I consider it absolutely necessary that we should lay down eight battleships this year. I hope you do not think for one moment that these eight battleships will be sufficient for the fleet you will have to form owing to our deferred obligations in the last four years. Matters connected with the British navy are very serious. Until all the evidence that I can give the inquiry is presented to it I will not make any public pronouncement on what I consider the very serious present position of the fleet through want of organization and proper preparation for war. My first pronouncement will be before the London chamber of commerce. No matter how serious the question might be found, there is no necessity for panic. I want my countrymen to wake up and look facts in the face. I want them to put themselves in such a position that war with them will be impossible." (Cheers.)

FAITH HEALING IS A REVIVAL FROM PAST

Professor Osler Addresses the Members of Ontario Medical Association.

Professor William Osler, regius professor of medicine at the University of Oxford, delivered an address before the members of the Ontario Medical Association in Toronto last week.

An active scepticism, the open and inquiring mind, should be the attitude of medical men towards the treatment of disease, said Prof. Osler. In the course of the address he commented on the progress which medical science had made in recent years. That progress had really been of the nature of a complete change, and medical activities were now rather directed towards the ideal of prevention instead of being confined to cure. He urged that medical men should not allow themselves to get into any rut. Theories should be submitted to continual proof. Dr. Osler protested strongly against the enslaving of the medical profession by manufacturing pharmacists, who, instead of being willing helpers, had assumed the role of teachers.

In another portion of his address he dealt with what he described as an epidemic of faith-healing, speaking of it tolerantly as a recrudescence, and admitting that faith at least in the power of the physician must play a large part in successful treatment. He dealt with the training of medical students, earnestly advocating that they should in the course of their instruction be given greater opportunities to study the practical side of medicine in the out-patient department and in the wards. Too much of the practical work, which students should be instructed in was in his opinion, left to nurses.

Dr. Osler, who was most cordially received, after expressing his gratification at the presence of his old instructor, Dr. Richardson, the oldest ex-president of the association, immediately addressed himself to his subject. The dominant view of the nature of disease, he said, outlined its treatment. As was their pathology, so was their practice. Thus in the centuries passed, when the outcome of looked upon as the direct outcome of sin, the treatment was simply an effort to arrive at a readjustment of man's relations with the invisible power, malign or benign. Solomon's book of wisdom dealing with human life was placed in the open in the temple, but it was removed by one of his successors lest the tampering with things beyond man's ken should annoy God, and even in modern days in some countries the same childish faith prevailed.

Great as had been the previous progress, there had been in the last fifty years a complete revolution in the attitude towards the treatment of disease. It had become recognized that it was due to chemical conditions in the fluids and tissues of the body, and therefore, they had reached the standpoint of approaching prevention and cure in a rational way. The highest aim was to prevent, and in this direction the greatest progress has been made. Panama, once the grave of the white man, in October last had a death rate of only twelve per thousand, and the problem of life in the tropics had been solved now that it had been shown that malaria could be prevented by very simple measures.

They had been able to get rid of many of the noxious deceptions with which people used to be dosed, and many of the old atrocities. They had been taught to recognize their limitations, to accept the fact that certain diseases were incurable, and to direct their attention to making the patient comfortable. "It is a hard matter to tell a patient that he is beyond hope," he said, "but for an intelligent man it is the best. We should be ready to make personal sacrifice in the cause of truth and loyalty to the profession." They must in such cases abandon quack-like premises.

They had reason to hope that diabetes might be placed on a sure foundation, but year by year pneumonia taught them the lesson of humility. They might wonder whether they did not lose as many patients from that disease as did their forefathers, but still they had the consolation that the old doctors, with their violent methods, must have killed many.

Their attitude should be one of active scepticism, born of the knowledge of limitation, for by that means true progress might be made. Indiscriminate dosing he condemned, and in this connection he admitted that he was often called a therapeutic nihilist. The day has passed, however, when they attacked a disease with a prescription loaded with a multitude of drugs. While acknowledging the debt the profession owed to the large manufacturing pharmacists, he strenuously objected to their methods of loading down the profession with literature, in which they assumed the role of teachers, and which he described as brazen therapeutic impudence.

Proceeding, he said: "An influenza-like outbreak of faith-healing seems to have the public of this continent in its grip. It is an old story, the oldest, indeed, in our history, and one in which we have a strong hereditary interest, since scientific medicine took its origin in a system of faith-healing, besides which all our modern attempts look feeble imitations. Once or twice in each century the serpent entwining the staff of Aesculapius gets restless, untwists, and in his gambols swallows his tail, and at once in full-circle back upon us come old thoughts and old practices which for a time dominate alike doctors and the laity." Yet faith must play some part, for if patients had not faith in their doctor where would be his clientele?

ARMY'S SCHEME THE LARGEST ON RECORD

Big Irrigation Project is in Contemplation in Southern Alberta.

Colonel Howell, head of the Salvation Army immigration work, is in the middle west at present, and has been conferring with the C. P. R. irrigation officials in regard to the army's colonization project in Alberta. In interviews with the press, Colonel Howell said that this season had been a very successful one. The department had so far successfully placed all their immigrants with employment, either on the land or commercially. Owing to hard times during the past two years, the army had used much precaution in bringing out their immigrants, so that all of them could be placed with some employment, consequently the number this year had not been quite as large as in former years.

This year had been, from an immigration point of view, better than was expected, so the department would continue to bring in settlers and immigrants in large numbers for some time, making the immigration season a late one.

Next year the army immigration policy would be continued. The department has not yet decided on next year's work, but work along the lines adopted this year would be continued. If this year is a good one, immigration by the Salvation Army next year would be a record one.

Providing the C. P. R. and the immigration department can come to terms, the proposed colonization scheme would be the largest on record. Starting in a small way at first, the department would develop the scheme so extensively that all their immigrants will settle in the irrigation district.

STARTLING JEWELLERY NOW IN FASHION

At the present time fashionable women are wearing more jewelry than for several decades past. There was a time, and that not so long ago, when fashion decreed only the slightest amount of jewelry for women's wear aside from the opera or full-dress functions of the most important sort. But nowadays it is the height of fashion for women to wear the most startling jewels at afternoon affairs and even in the morning and inside modesty sleeping apartments, says the Montreal Star.

This has resulted in a great mass of new jewelry inventions for women's wearing. In Paris the serpent seems to have fascinated the fashionable woman, and it is to be found in heavy metal coils, or even in entire coils of jewels, wrapped around the fashionable woman's neck, where it is usually long enough to twist about three times and thrust its jeweled head upward and outward near the ear, with protruding fangs of gold and silver.

But it is also to be seen in countless numbers twisted around the arms, and even about the fingers of the ultra-modish woman in Paris, Vienna and London. Also for evening wear it is worn as a collier, with its sinuous body hidden in the puffs of hair and encircling the dressing at the top, but in the best models it does not rear its head up, but appears through the hair above the right or left temple.

Beaten silver is much in use nowadays in jewelry and is being made up into wreaths and tiaras and into combs, pendants, necklets and quaintly designed bangles and rings. Quaintness and unusual bizarre effects are being eagerly sought by the modish women in Europe, and this feature is quite as important to the extremely wealthy woman of fashion as the actual value of the jewels and metal used in manufacturing her ornaments.

The large and round wreaths for evening wear in the hair have almost disappeared. They were heavy and cumbersome. A long and very slender wreath of beaten silver leaves, holding a great pearl over the right temple, may be worn with a silver pendant to match.

Dainty enamel lace pins are pretty for day wear, and there are handsome and fetching corselet brooches, with the Egyptian scarab, or sacred beetle of the ancient Pharaohs encased in heavy beaten silver. Cameos are worn much set into beaten silver. In fact, mimicry now wears an amount of jewelry which, a few years back, would have been considered as barbaric taste and fit only for a Turkish or Hindu princess to wear at a coronation function.

SKELETONS AS PLAYTHINGS.

Many Dug Up in Toronto on Side of Old Graveyard.

The workmen excavating where the old parish school stood, at the corner of Church and Adelaide streets, continue to turn up human skeletons, says the Toronto News. Besides several sacks full of bones, a temporary bin in the cellar of St. James holds a miscellaneous heap. Skulls and other bones uncovered by pick and shovel lie in disorder, brown from many years in the clay.

Children left their play on the churchyard lawn for the unaccustomed amusement of digging up human remains, after the workmen left last evening. A lad displayed to onlookers a human jawbone with a couple of perfectly preserved teeth still in their place. The relic he held in this "Xmas, poor York" attitude might have been part of his great-grandfather.

The youngster lifted a molar from its bony socket and revealed a little splash of bright red blood. Not a body was buried in this graveyard since 1840!

The skeletons were found so close together that it would almost seem that coffins had not been used, but here and there a bit of dry, brown wood indicated the former existence of a shell long crumbled.

Disturbed in their last resting place, when dust has returned to dust, the bones of people, some of whom in life were of exalted position, lie mixed with those of men of low degree. The skull of Jones, a judge or parliamentarian, rests carelessly on the leg-bone of Smith, day laborer. Six feet of earth make men all of one size. The skeletons dug up, numbering about twenty-five so far, will be given decent burial by the authorities.

POLICE CARRY PAPER CLUBS.

The discovery that many of the dress clubs used by the New York policemen are made of papier mache and varnished, and uniforms of the members of the force are of inferior cloth, has prompted Commissioner Bingham to order a new inspection of uniforms and equipments. It is hinted by Commissioner Bingham that the inspectors who passed the paper clubs and cheap

A BOLD STEP

To overcome the well-grounded and reasonable objections of the more intelligent to the use of secret, medicinal compounds, Dr. R. V. Pierce, of Buffalo, N. Y., some time ago, decided to make a bold departure from the usual course pursued by the makers of put-up medicines for domestic use, and so has published broad-cast and openly to the whole world, a full and complete list of all the ingredients entering into the composition of his widely celebrated medicines.

Thus Dr. Pierce has taken his numerous patrons and patients into his full confidence. Thus too he has removed his medicines from among secret nostrums of doubtful merits and placed them in a class all by themselves by making them remedies of known composition. By this bold step Dr. Pierce has shown that his formulas are of such excellence that he is not afraid to subject them to the fullest scrutiny.

Not only does the wrapper of every bottle of Dr. Pierce's Golden Medical Discovery, the famous medicine for weak stomach, torpid liver or biliousness and all catarrhal diseases wherever located, have printed upon it in plain English, a full and complete list of all the ingredients composing it, but a small book has been compiled from numerous standard medical works, of all the different schools of practice, containing very numerous extracts from the writings of leading practitioners of medicine, endorsing in the strongest possible terms, each and every ingredient contained in Dr. Pierce's medicines. One of these little books will be mailed free to any one sending address on postal card or by letter, to Dr. R. V. Pierce, Buffalo, N. Y., and requesting the same.

As made up by improved and exact processes, the "Favorite Prescription" is a most efficient remedy for regulating all the womanly functions, correcting displacements, as prolapsus, anteversion and retroversion, overcoming painful periods, toning up the nerves and bringing about a perfect state of health. Sold by all dealers in medicines.

SUSPECTED OF STEALING.

A woman giving the name of Mrs. Rolles, and claiming to have come here from Los Angeles, is confined in the provincial jail, awaiting trial on a charge of theft preferred against her by Capt. Wolley, of Pier Island. She has admitted the theft to the provincial police.

The facts as given by the provincial police are that the woman was employed for two months as domestic at Capt. Wolley's home on Pier Island. Several articles were missed from time to time, including jewellery and household articles. Mrs. Elliott, a guest of the prosecutor, also lost money, and Constable Lumley was called in. He executed a search warrant and the articles were discovered in the woman's possession. A large quantity of valuable lace was also found in the woman's trunks.

Sidney Child has been retained for the defence, and Constable Lumley has gone to Pier Island to notify Capt. Wolley that he is needed here at the trial.

CITY APPROVES
POWER SCHEME

Rates in Victoria.
 "No," replied Mr. Goward, "but I say that if the rates go up there ours will not. This matter has been put off from year to year. We finally sent you an agreement on March 22nd and up to the present we have heard nothing of that. If the council does not want the agreement they have only to say so. As to Mr. Hutchinson's remark that our figures are flexible, this company has always lived up to its agreements. New Westminster we offered to supply at either three-fourths or three-fifths of their cost of production and they were only too glad to accept it. We say here we will supply you for half what it now costs you. Furthermore, in spending a million and a half we will have to spend a lot of money in and around Victoria, and talking to people in the city that appears to be what they want. It seems to me almost extraordinary that the only people making any objection in any way are some members in this room. We cannot find them outside; the public seems to be absolutely in line in support of our proposition. I do not like this talk about our agreement. We have drawn it up after consulting with you and then your solicitor comes along and says it is absolutely one-sided. Let us go over it then and have him show where it is one-sided."

City Solicitor Mann hastened to assure the council that he and the company could come to an agreement, and advised that Mr. Goward had given a copy of the solicitor's letter.

Ald. Bishop wanted to know why this had not been done before instead of waiting all this time.

The mayor remarked that the council all knew the reason.

"We do not," retorted Ald. Stewart. "If you want electrical energy for your street lighting at half what it costs you now you can have it; if you do not you need not take it. We can sell it to much better advantage," said Mr. Goward.

Ald. Fullerton pointed out that an important point was whether or not the city was to benefit by any future reductions in cost of production. It was all very well to reduce the price to the Vancouver price now, but electrical developments might lead to a big cut in cost of production, the advantage of which consumers here should have.

Future Reductions.

Mr. Goward replied that the company had made voluntary reductions in Vancouver, until prices there were as low as any in Canada, in spite of the infinitely high wages paid. There was nothing to prevent the company making voluntary reductions here, but it did not want to be bound to follow here any reductions made in Vancouver, where the meeting of competition might possibly at some time lead to prices lower than cost of production. He was absolutely convinced that if there were reductions in the cost of production Victoria would benefit by them.

Ald. Fullerton remarked that Victoria did not want to be boycotted and have industries settling in Vancouver because of cheaper power there.

"That is the strongest possible argument that can be used in favor of this agreement," said Mr. Goward. Ald. Turner said the council would be boycotting the city if it refused to assist the company in the development of its Jordan river plans. If they were giving away anything of the city's they should get dollar for dollar but they were not. To refuse assent to the agreement would be to stand in the city's light, to act the part of the dog in the manger.

The council adopted Ald. Turner's motion, the mayor, Ald. Henderson and Ald. Turner to act with the city solicitor in drafting a by-law for early submission to council.

TOLL OF BRITISH RAILWAYS.

Return of Accidents and Casualties For Three Months.

The British Board of Trade has just compiled a return of the accidents and casualties reported to the board by the several railway companies in the United Kingdom during the three months ending on December 31st last. The first table in this return shows the number of persons killed and injured on railways during the three months in question. The total number killed in that period was 317, while 2,049 persons were injured. The respective figures for the corresponding three months of 1907 were 316 and 2,551. There were 14 victims of fatal accidents at level-crossings, while 156 trespassers (including suicides) met with their deaths.

A second table catalogues the accidents to servants in the employ of railway companies or contractors. From this it appears that during the three months there were 115 servants of companies or contractors reported as having been killed and 1,247 injured. These deaths and injuries were caused through coupling, shunting, braking, and various other operations. Two men were killed while attending to gates at level-crossings, and 42 were killed and 76 injured while walking, crossing, or standing on the line on duty. Of these last-named 30 were killed and 63 injured in and about stations.

In addition to the foregoing, the railway companies reported to the board of trade the following accidents which occurred during the three months upon their premises, but in which the movement of vehicles used exclusively on railways was not concerned: 1 passenger, 14 servants of companies or contractors, and 3 other persons killed, and 282 passengers, 493 servants, and 161 other persons injured, making a total in this class of accident of 18 persons killed and 5,263 injured, as against 20 killed and 5,063 injured in the corresponding period of 1907.

Newspapers left by travellers in railway cars in Belgium are collected about 200,000 pounds a year and used in the manufacture of pulp for making a certain quality of cardboard.

Summer Furniture

A SPECIAL WINDOW SHOWING

THE Broughton street windows contain a display of seasonable Summer Furniture—many items you'll need this Summer. Take a look at the window and see the delightfully rustic "Old Hickory" Summer Furniture and the many serviceable pieces of "Gold Medal" Camp Furniture. There is nothing better made in either line, and the prices are the fairest possible.

Then there are the refrigerators, and the refrigerator question is a live issue just at present. Before you purchase a refrigerator we want you to investigate our splendid values. We don't believe in "cheap" refrigerators for they are neither "cheap" nor healthy. Our prices range from $12.

Make your own ice cream and know just exactly what you are eating. No danger of serious "after effects," unless, of course, it is so good you eat an over-abundance. We have "Lightning" Ice Cream Freezers from $2.75.

THREE OF THE SECOND FLOOR'S OFFERINGS

DRAPERY offerings of exceptional merit are offered in these three lines chosen from the drapery stock. Each has its own particular special place in the home, and no other material can better fill that place. We would like to have every Victorian housekeeper acquainted with our drapery store, so ask you to come in and see these offerings.

BRITAIN'S FLEET IS STILL FAR IN LEAD

On the Whole it is Equal to Any Other Two Nations.

A return showing the fleets of Great Britain, France, Russia, Germany, Italy, United States, and Japan on March 31st, 1909, omitting battleships and armored cruisers over twenty years old from date of launch and building, torpedo vessels, torpedo-boat destroyers, torpedo-boats, and submarines, was issued as a British parliamentary paper recently.

Britain leads with 18, Russia has 7, France 5, United States 3, Japan 2, and Germany and Italy nil. No first-class protected cruisers are now building in any of the countries concerned.

As regards second-class protected cruisers, Great Britain possesses 28, Germany, 21, United States 16, France 12, Japan 10, Italy 4, and Russia 2, while Germany has 7 of these vessels now building, Great Britain 6, and Japan 1.

In third-class protected cruisers Great Britain leads with 16, Germany and Italy have each 12, France has 11, Japan 3, and Russia and United States 7 each. No such vessels are at present building.

In unprotected cruisers Germany heads the list with 11, United States has 10, Japan 5, and Russia 2. Great Britain, France, and Italy all, though Great Britain has two unprotected cruisers building, this being the only nation which is at present constructing such vessels.

As regards scouts Great Britain has 8 and United States 3. No such vessels are now building.

Great Britain easily leads in the matter of torpedo vessels with 18, in addition to 5 depot ships for destroyers and submarines. France has 12 and one special vessel, Russia 6, Italy 5, United States 2, Japan 1 and 1 depot ship, and Germany 1.

In torpedo-boat destroyers Great Britain has 146, of which four are ocean going; Russia has 97, Germany 72, France 56, Japan 55, United States 29, and Italy 17. Of such vessels building Great Britain has 25, Germany 24,
